HISTORY OF THIRTY-SIXTH INFANTRY.

The Thirty-sixth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Hammond, near Aurora, Ill., by Colonel N. Greusel, and was mustered into the service by Colonel Brackett, U. S. Mustering Officer, September 23, 1861, for a term of three years, or during the war. The Regiment numbered 965 officers and enlisted men, and had two companies of Cavalry, ("A" and "B") 186 officers and men. On September 24, moved via Quincy, Ill., to St, Louis, Mo., where the companies of Infantry were armed. Companies "A" and "B" receiving Minnie and Enfield rifles, the other companies remodeled Springfield muskets calibre 69. On September 28, left St. Louis by rail for Rolla, Mo., leaving the Cavalry at Benton Barracks. Remaining in camp at this place, "Seven Mile Creek" and "Mill Creek" until December 26, the Regiment broke camp and started on the Murfreesboro campaign, On December 31 took part in the battle of Stone River, After the battle and evacuation of Murfreesboro, went into camp on the bank of Stone River, on the Shelbyville Pike, where it remained until June 24, 1862. The Regiment then took part in the Tullahoma campaign, participating in the skirmishes incident to the driving of Bragg's army out of Middle Tennessee. Reached Cowan July 3, where it went into camp and remained until July 30, when it broke camp and marched to Bridgeport, Ala. Went into camp and assisted in bridging the Tennessee River, preparatory to crossing and entering upon the Chattanooga campaign. Crossed the river September 2, and being in McCook's corps, marched to Broomtown Valley, crossing Lookout Mountain through Winston's Gap. Here McCook was ordered to join Thomas. which he did by a forced march of 46 miles. The Regiment took part in the battle of Chickamauga September 20, and retired via Rossville with the army into Chattanooga, sharing with the rest of the army in its privations during the siege. The Regiment took an active part in the battle of Missionary Ridge November 25, 1863, its colors being among the first planted on the Ridge. On the 28th started under Sheridan for Knoxville. Tenn., to relieve Burnside. Reached that point December 6. Moving out on the 12th, marched to different points east of Knoxville until it bivouacked in midwinter at Blain's Cross Roads on the 17th. Re-enlisting at this place January 1, 1864, the Regiment started January 6 for Chattanooga to arrange details of muster for new term of service, preparatory to veteran furlough. Returning, left Nashville, Tenn., March 26, for Chattanooga, marching nearly the entire route. May 3, started on the Atlanta campaign; was under fire almost daily, with quite severe fighting at Rocky Face Ridge, Resaca, Adairsville, New Hope Church, Kenesaw Mountain, Peach Tree Creek and Jonesboro, marching into Atlanta September 8. On September 25 was ordered back to Chattanooga, leaving that place on the 2d of October in pursuit of Hood; marched to Ringgold, Shell Mound, Whiteside, Gordon Mills, Summerville, Alpine, Huntsville, Decatur, Athens, Pulaski, Columbia, Spring Hill and Franklin, being rear guard and under fire almost continuously from Spring Hill to Franklin. It was there engaged in the hottest of that memorable battle, General Thomas personally thanking the Regiment for its bravery and gallantry in that fight. The First Brigade, to which it belonged, Colonel Opdyke commanding, charged the rebel lines, and at different periods in the action captured thirty-three (33) stands of colors, and on the night of November 30 was the last to cross the bridge over the Harpeth River, on retiring from the field for Nashville, which place it reached on the afternoon of December 1. The Regiment was placed in position on the Hillsboro and Granny White Pikes. Was engaged in the battle of Nashville December 15 and 16, and captured a battery and over 100 prisoners on the 15th. On the retreat of Bragg, the Regiment joined in pursuit December 17, passing through Brentwood to Franklin, thence to Columbia and Pulaski, reaching Lexington on December 28. Leaving there on the 31st, passed through Athens on the 5th of January, 1865, reaching Huntsville on the 6th, where the Regiment built barracks and went into winter quarters. Leaving Huntsville March 28, proceeded by rail to Chattanooga, from thence through East Tennessee. Marching from Bull's Gap went into camp at Blue Springs April 4. While in camp at this place, the Regiment received, on the night of April 10, the news of Lee's surrender, and, in the same camp, April 15, news of the assassination of President Lincoln. Orders were then received to return to Nashville, the Regiment marching from Blue Springs to Bulls Gap, where it boarded a train and returned to Nashville via Knoxville and Chattanooga. Remained there until June 15, when it proceeded by rail to Johnsonville, on the Tennessee River, where it was placed on transports, under orders for New Orleans, La., reaching that point June 23. At the special request of General Sheridan, the Thirty-sixth was detailed for headquarter and other special duty, thereby receiving from other troops the sobriquet, "Sheridan's pet." The Regiment did special duty quelling disturbances, guarding paymasters and conveying rebel archives captured in the West to Washington, D. C., until October 8, on which date it was mustered out of service and proceeded to Springfield, Illinois, received pay, and disbanded October 27, 1865.

HISTORY OF THIRTY-SEVENTH INFANTRY

The Thirty-seventh Infantry, known as "Fremont Rifles," was organized by Colonel Julius White in August, 1861, and was mustered into service September 18th. The Regiment rendezvoused at Camp Webb. On the 19th of September it left for St. Louis. The Regiment numbered: Field and staff, 15; company officers, 30 and 964 enlisted men. It was composed of ten companies of infantry and two of cavalry. Companies C and F were from Lake county, commanded respectively by Captain Eugene B. Payne and Captain E. B. Messer; Companies A and H, from Rock Island county, commanded respectively by Captain John A. Jordon and Captain John B. Frick; Companies D and G, from Chicago, commanded respectively by Captain John W. Laimbeer and Captain Henry N. Frisbie; Company I, from Boone, commanded by Captain Ransom Kennicott; Company E, from LaSalle, commanded by Captain P. B. Rust; Company B, from Henry and Stark, commanded by Captain Charles V. Dickinson, and Company K, from Vermilion, commanded by Captain William P. Black.

Before departure, the Regiment was presented with battle flags by the Board of Trade of Chicago, and upon reporting to General Fremont, at St. Louis, Mo., was reviewed by him and his staff in front of his headquarters, upon which occasion ribbons of red, white and blue were tied to the spear-head of the battle flag of the Regiment by the hands of the distinguished wife of the General, Mrs. Jesse Benton Freemont. The Regiment was armed —the eight inside companies with Springfield rifles, and the two flanking companies and all non-commissioned officers with Colt's repeating rifle (seven shooters).

About October 2, the Regiment proceeded to Booneville, Mo., where it went into camp. About October 10th, Captains Black and Payne embarked their companies on board the steamer "War Eagle," and proceeded up the Missouri to Arrow Rock, and after exploring Saline county for the rebel General Claib Jackson, returned. About October 13, Captain Payne was left in command of the post at Booneville with Companies C and H, and seven companies of Home Guards, and Colonel White proceeded with the other eight companies, as a part of General Fremont's army, to the capture of Springfield, Mo., then held by Price's (rebel) army. The rebels retreating, the Regiment went into camp on the Lamine river, where it was joined February 7th, 1862, by Captain Payne's command from Booneville, when the Regiment became a part of the Army of the Frontier, under Generals Curtis and Herron. From the Lamine, the Regiment marched by way of Cassville, Mo., along the "Wire road," skirmishing all the way with the retreating rebel army, to Sugar Creek, in Arkansas, where, on the 6th, 7th and 8th of March, 1862, it participated in the battle of Pea Ridge, Arkansas, where, although the rebel army outnumbered the Federal army two to one, we won a complete and brilliant victory, and saved St. Louis from Price's grasp. At this battle, Col. Julius White commanded the Brigade, composed of the Thirty-seventh and Fifty-ninth Illinois, and Davidson's Peoria Battery.

From 10 A. M. of the 7th of March until sundown, this Brigade met and repulsed the onslaught of 6,000 rebels, under Generals McCullough and McIntosh, both of whom were killed in front of this Brigade. The night of the 7th, the Regiment slept on its arms, and next day renewed the fight, and at 11 A. M. a general charge was made, which resulted in putting Price's army to flight and our taking many prisoners. The rebel army numbered 35,000 men, and were completely whipped and forced to retreat south by General Curtis' Union army of 15,000. For his gallant handling of his heroic Brigade at this battle, Colonel White was made Brigadier General of Volunteers. At this battle the Thirty-seventh lost, killed, 21; wounded, 114—total, 135.

After this battle, the Thirty-seventh Infantry, with the Peoria Battery and Hubbard's Missouri Cavalry, were stationed at Cassville, Mo., on outpost duty.

In June, 1862, General White received his commission as General, and departed east to report for duty. Lieutenant Colonel Barnes was then promoted Colonel; Major John Chas. Black Lieutenant Colonel, and Captain H. N. Frisbie Major.

During the summer of 1862, the report coming in that a large force of rebels and Indians were at Neosho, Mo., 40 miles distant, Lieutenant Colonel Black, taking all the available force at the Post, started at sunrise, marched to Neosho, met and defeated the enemy and drove him into the Indian Territory; returned to Neosho at midnight, and reached Cassville by sundown the next day, with over 300 prisoners and a large number of horses, mules and wagons captured from the enemy, having marched 100 miles and fought a battle in two days.

The Thirty-seventh guarded the frontier in southwest Missouri all through the summer of 1862, having frequent fights with roving bands under Coffee and Quantrell, alternating between Springfield and Cassville, Mo.

During the summer of 1862, Company F, of Thirty-seventh Illinois, Captain E. B. Messer commanding, was detailed as a guard of the College Military Prison at Springfield, Mo., and occupied part of the summer in the construction of a stockade, and otherwise fortifying Springfield.

September 29, 1862, found the Thirty-seventh again on the march after the enemy. October 1, reached Pond Springs, Mo. October 4th, drove the rebels out of Newtonia, Mo.; thence to Gadfly, thence to Cassville, Mo., thence to old battle-field of Pea Ridge, thence to Huntsville, Ark., arriving there October 20th. Started on the evening of October 22 for Bentonville; marched all night. Crossed White river, and camped four miles south of Cross Hollows October 23d. Reached Osage Springs October 24th. Broke camp on the evening of October 27th, marched all night, and at daylight surprised the rebels at Fayetteville, Ark.; took some prisoners, and returned to Osage Springs October 30th.

Continued marching in light order, chasing rebels from one place to another, until December 1, 1862, when the Regiment went into camp at Camp Lyon, Mo.

On account of the rapid marching qualities of the Thirty-seventh, and the fact that it was always on the march in pursuit of the enemy, when not actually engaged in battle with him, it gained the sobriquet of "The Illinois Greyhounds," by which name it was known all over Missouri and Arkansas.

December 3, 1862, Colonel Barnes having retired from the service, and Lieutenant Colonel Black being Colonel, H. N. Frisbie Lieutenant Colonel, and Eugene B. Payne, Captain of Company C, Major, the order came to the Regiment, then at Camp Lyon, Mo., to proceed to the relief of General Blunt, then besieged at Sugar Hill, Ark.

Leaving the baggage to follow, the Regiment started for the relief of Blunt, and marched to Prairie Grove, Ark., in three days, a distance of 112 miles, double-quicking the last ten miles.

On the morning of December 7, 1862, engaged the enemy at Prairie Grove, Ark., near Illinois Creek. General Herron commanded the Division at that battle, and Colonel Dye, Twentieth Iowa, commanded the Brigade composed of his own regiment, the Thirty-seventh Illinois, and one battery. The battle lasted all day, and was one of the most hotly contested and bloody battles of the war, considering the number engaged.

The Thirty-seventh lost about one-seventh of its number in killed and wounded.

Colonel Black, at this battle, commanded the Regiment with one arm in a sling, shattered at the battle of Pea Ridge, and late in the fight had his other arm shattered by a rifle ball. Many of the company officers were killed and wounded.

That night General Marmaduke, commander of the rebel army, and under a flag of truce, approached the outpost, under command of Major Payne, Officer of the Day, and after being disarmed and blindfolded by that officer, was escorted by him to the headquarters of General Herron. Exactly what transpired at this conference is not known, except that the battle was named Prairie Grove. It is surmised, however, that General Herron demanded an unconditional surrender, to which General Marmaduke could not fully accede. Returning, the rebel leader muffled his artillery wheels, and fled during the night across the mountains. The Thirty-seventh accompanied General Herron the next day, and pursued the rebel army over the Boston mountains to Fort Smith, Ark., where General Marmaduke, with the remnant of his rebel army, crossed the river and escaped.

The Thirty-seventh returned to Prairie Grove, and as a part of General Herron's Army of the Frontier, spent the winter and spring of 1862-63 in marching from point to point, in Missouri and Arkansas, having numerous skirmishes with the enemy, until April 24, 1863, when the Regiment proceeded to St. Louis, and from thence to Cape Girardeau, Mo., where it engaged the enemy single-handed, and drove him across the sunken country to Chalk Bluffs, on the St. Francis River. It was at this battle of Chalk Bluffs, fought May 2, 1863, that the brave Lieutenant Joseph Eaton, Company H, was killed.

Returning to St. Louis, the Regiment accompanied General Herron's Division to Vicksburg, Miss., where about June 13, 1863, it helped to completely environ Vicksburg by closing up the gap between General Logan and the river on the south side. Major Eugene B. Payne was here detailed as "Picket Officer" of General Herron's Division, and had full charge of the rifle pits during the siege. The Regiment took a prominent part in the siege of Vicksburg, and being hardy veterans, marched with every man into the captured city, July 4, 1863.

July 13, 1863, the Regiment proceeded up Yazoo River, landing near Yazoo City and capturing that place after a hard fight, taking many prisoners. Thence marched to the Big Black River in pursuit of enemy. Was from thence ordered back to Vicksburg, thence to Port Hudson, and from thence, August 13, proceeded to New Orleans, La., and went into camp at Carrollton. September 4, 1863, the Regiment was reviewed by General U. S. Grant. September 5, proceeded to Morganzia, La., and on September 8, in company with 20th Iowa, and 26th Indiana, started in pursuit of General Dick Taylor, and General Green's Rebel forces west of Atchafalaya River. On 29th September, met enemy near Morgan's Bend. Rebel force 3,000—Union force 1,200—whipped them. Rebel loss 32 killed, 110 wounded. Union loss, 13 killed, 34 wounded. On September 30, General Dana took command of our Division. October 1, Regiment had another "scrape" with the enemy and took 65 prisoners. Returned to New Orleans, La., October 11. Lieutenant Colonel H. N. Frisbie having resigned, Major Eugene B. Payne was promoted Lieutenant Colonel, commanding Regiment, as Colonel Black was in command of the Brigade composed of Twenty-sixth Indiana, Twentieth Iowa and Thirty-seventh Illinois. October 13, Colonel Black with his Brigade embarked and proceeded to, and took possession of Brownsville, Texas. From that time until Feb., 1864, the Regiment guarded the Rio Grande River as far north as Ringgold Barracks. In Feb., 1864, the Regiment re-enlisted for three years, and was re-mustered Feb. 28, 1864. Receiving a furlough of thirty days the "boys" visited their homes for the first time in three years. Reporting at Chicago, the Regiment proceeded to Memphis, Tenn., April 30th, where Colonel Black with his Brigade was sent after the rebel General Forrest, whom he forced to retreat into interior of State. Returning to Memphis the Regiment proceeded to "Atchafalaya Bayou," where General Black's Brigade constructed the celebrated "Steamboat Bridge" over which General N. P. Banks escaped from the rebel General Dick Taylor. May 30th, started out on another scout; marched 60 miles and camped at Morganzia, La. Between June 2d and 14th, 90 of the Regiment were on another scout. Attached to Nineteenth Army Corps June 14th; July 12th proceeded up White River and fortified St. Charles, Ark. Returned to Morganzia July 12th. The Nineteenth Army Corps (Banks) having returned east, the Regiment was attached to Thirteenth Army Corps and placed in General Lawler's Division. September 20th, all the non-veterans returned home. October 7th, the Regiment went into regular winter quarters at Duvall's Bluff, Ark. (a thing they had never done before). January 4, 1865, the Regiment received marching orders and proceeded to New Orleans, La., and thence to Barrancas, Florida. March 11th, marched to Pensacola, Florida. The Regiment was now in First Brigade Second Division Thirteenth Army Corps, General Steele commanding. March 20th, the Regiment marched across Perdido River and Aslumbia River on bridges built by themselves, to Pollard, Florida, having several skirmishes by the way. March 13th, Colonel John C. Black was promoted Brevet Brigadier General of Volunteers, and Lieutenant Colonel Eugene B. Payne was promoted to Brevet Colonel of Volunteers, and then Brevet Brigadier General of Volunteers by the President and Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War. General Payne having resigned on account of sickness as Lieutenant Colonel, Major Ransom Kennicott was promoted Lieutenant Colonel and Captain H. Wolford, Co. H, was promoted Major. April 2d, the Regiment participated in the seige and storming of Fort Blakely, Ala. April 9th, stormed Fort Blakely, and after a hard fought battle captured the Fort, capturing 1,200 prisoners and much property. The Regiment's loss was 1 killed and 7 wounded. April 14th, entered Mobile, Ala., and went into camp. April 20th, embarked on steamers and proceeded up the Alabama River to Cahawba, Ala., (a late rebel prison pen) and took on board the half starved emaciated Union prisoners confined there. Near Selma, Ala., a gang of Bushwhacking rebels fired into our boat killing one man of Co. A. Retribution quickly followed, for the Regiment landed and burned the houses of the leader of the Rebels, and General Steele issued his proclamation that if his boats were fired on again his troops would burn all buildings within 15 miles of the shooting. This put a stop to it. On April 29 reached Montgomery, Ala., (seat of Rebel Government). Returned to Selma, May 1. Reached Mobile, Ala., May 15. June 12th received orders to march with 60 rounds. Remained in suspense until June 28th, when the Regiment embarked on steamer and for the fifth time ploughed the Gulf. Arrived at Galveston, Texas, July 1. Reached Sabine Pass July 5, and camped at Beaumont. July 17th, went to Houston, Texas, where the Regiment, with headquarters at Houston, was stationed by companies along the railroads leading out of Houston. July 13th, Major Wolford was mustered out and Captain J. J. Huntley, Co. C, was promoted Major. Co. A was stationed at Brenham, B at Milligan, C at Columbus, D at Beaumont, F at Richmond, H at Alleyton, K at Hempstead, with E, G and I at Houston. General Black resigned August 15, 1865, and Lieutenant Colonel Ransom Kennicott was promoted Colonel, and Major J. J. Huntley, Lieutenant Colonel, and Captain Jack Moran, Co. D, Major. On May 15, 1866, the Thirty-seventh was mustered out of the U. S. service at Houston, Texas, and reached Springfield, Ill., May 31, 1866, where it received final payment and discharge, having been in the service of the United States four years and ten months, and having participated in eleven hard fought battles and sieges and innumerable skirmishes, and having marched a distance of 17,846 miles as follows: By steam, 14,560 miles; on foot, 3,286 miles, according to the tabulated statement kept by Henry Ketzle, veteran of Co. A.

HISTORY OF THIRTY-EIGHTH INFANTRY.

The Thirty-eighth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in September, 1861, by Colonel William P. Carlin. September 20, 1861, was ordered to Pilot Knob, Missouri, receiving its arms en route. Colonel Carlin was placed in command of the post. October 20, marched to Fredericktown, and 21st was engaged in the battle at that place with the enemy under Jeff. Thompson.

The Regiment remained at Pilot Knob during the winter.

March 3, 1862, moved to Reeves' Station, on Black River, arriving on the 10th. Here the troops, consisting of Twenty-first, Thirty-third and Thirty-eighth Illinois Infantry, Eleventh Wisconsin Infantry, Fifth, Seventh and Ninth Illinois Cavalry, First Indiana Cavalry, and Sixteenth Ohio Battery, were organized into the Division of South-east Missouri, under command of Brigadier General F. Steele. First Brigade, Colonel Carlin commanding, consisted of Twenty-first and Thirty-eighth Illinois Infantry, Fifth Illinois Cavalry, and Sixteenth Ohio Battery.

March 31, moved from Reeves' Station to Doniphan. April 17, crossed Current River; 21st, reached Pocahontas, Arkansas.

April 30, marched for Jacksonport, Arkansas, arriving May 4.

May 10, the Twenty-first and Thirty-eighth were ordered to Cape Girardeau, Missouri, 220 miles distant. This march was made in ten days, a day and a half of which time was spent in ferrying Black and Current Rivers. May 24, arrived at Hamburg Landing. Moved to the front, and were before Corinth during the last days of the siege—in Second Brigade, Fourth Division, Left Wing Army of Mississippi, Colonel Carlin commanding Brigade, Brigadier General Jeff. C. Davis commanding Division, and Major General John Pope commanding Army of the Mississippi.

Marched to Danville, Booneville, back to Corinth, and to Jacinto. During the last of June marched to Ripley, and returned by forced marches, arriving July 4, 1862. Remained in camp till August 14, when marched with the Division to join the Army of the Ohio, under General Buell. Passing through Iuka, Mississippi, crossed the Tennessee at Eastport; thence marched via Florence, Alabama, Lawrenceburg, Mt. Pleasant, Columbia, Franklin, Murfreesboro and Nashville, Tennessee, Bowling Green, Mumfordsville, Elizabethtown, and West Point, Kentucky, arriving at Louisville, Kentucky, September 26, 1862, having marched, night and day, about 500 miles.

October 1, marched from Louisville in the Thirty-first Brigade, Ninth Division, Army of the Ohio—Colonel Carlin commanding Brigade, and General Robert B. Mitchell commanding Division.

October 8, engaged in battle of Perryville, Major D. H. Gilmer commanding, and captured an ammunition train, two caissons and about 100 prisoners. Was honorably mentioned in General Mitchell's report of the battle. Joined in pursuit of Bragg as far as Crab Orchard, and then marched through Lancaster, Danville, Lebanon and Bowling Green, to Edgefield Junction, near Nashville, arriving November 9.

Went on a scout to Harpeth Shoals with Fifteenth Wisconsin Volunteers, and returned November 20, having destroyed a large quantity of salt, and captured a rebel wagon train and one hundred horses and mules.

Advanced from Nashville, December 26, 1862, and with the Brigade, (Second Brigade, First Division, Right Wing of Army of Cumberland), charged a battery at Knob Gap, near Nolensville, capturing two guns. Regimental loss, 3 killed and 8 wounded.

Engaged in the battle of Stone River, from December 30, 1862, to January 4, 1863. December 31, the Brigade was heavily engaged, repulsed three heavy charges, and held the position until the enemy, having driven Johnson's Division, came heavily on the flank and forced the line to retire. Regiment lost in this engagement, 34 killed, 109 wounded, and 34 missing.

Encamped at Murfreesboro until June. Meantime the Right Wing was changed to the Twentieth Army Corps.

When the enemy advanced on Tullahoma, the Twentieth Army Corps moved on Liberty Gap, and engaged the enemy, June 24, 25 and 26. On the 25th the Thirty-eighth was ordered to relieve the Seventy-seventh Pennsylvania, of General Willich's Brigade of General Johnson's Division, who were hotly pressed by the enemy. The Thirty-eighth charged across a plowed field, under heavy fire, and drove the enemy from their works, capturing the flag of the Second Arkansas. June 26, skirmished with the enemy all day, losing 3 killed and 19 wounded. That night the enemy withdrew.

Marched through Manchester, and camped at Winchester, Tennessee. August 17, 1863, crossed the Cumberland Mountains to Stevenson, Alabama; 30th, crossed the Tennessee River at Caperton's Ferry. Crossed Sand Mountain and camped in Will's Valley. September 9, crossed Lookout Mountain, and camped in Broomtown Valley, about 50 miles south of Chattanooga.

September 13 and 14, recrossed Lookout Mountain to Will's Valley; 16th, ascended Lookout Mountain, and marched 25 miles, on the top, to Stevens' Gap; 17th, entered McLemore's Cave, and laid in line of battle before Dug Gap, in Pigeon Mountains; 17th, at dark, moved to the left, to Pond Springs; 19th, marched past Crawfish Springs and entered the battle of Chickamauga, near Gordon's Mills. Double quicking, a line was formed, under fire, and was hotly engaged till dark. September 20, was moved to the left. Went into position at 10 a. m., and was heavily engaged. The enemy, pressing through a gap made by the withdrawal of General Woods' Division, forced the line back, and the Brigade narrowly escaped capture. Was re-formed on the hills, in the rear of the battle ground, and marched toward McFarland's farm. We then marched toward the right, where General Thomas was continuing the fight. After dark, returned to McFarland's farm. Loss, Lieutenant Colonel D. H. Gilmer, killed, and Major Alden severely wounded. Of 301 men who entered the fight, 180 were killed, wounded or missing.

September 21, Captain W. C. Harris, being relieved from Brigadier General Carlin's staff, took command of the Regiment; 22d, moved into Chattanooga, and remained till the last of October, working on fortifications, etc. The Twentieth Army Corps was broken up, and Twenty-first and Thirty-eighth Illinois, One Hundred and First Ohio and Eighty-first Indiana were assigned to First Brigade, First Division, Fourth Army Corps.

October 25, 1863, marched to Bridgeport, Alabama, and went into winter quarters.

HISTORY OF THE THIRTY-NINTH INFANTRY.

The organization of this Regiment was commenced as soon as the news of the firing on Fort Sumpter reached Chicago.

General T. O. Osborn was one of its contemplated field officers, and labored zealously to get it accepted under the first call for troops, but did not accomplish his object. The State having filled its quota without this Regiment, efforts were made to get it accepted into the State service of Missouri, but without success. The Regiment had already assumed the name of His Excellency, the Governor of Illinois, and was known as the "Yates Phalanx." Governor Yates manifested an earnest desire to see it brought into the service, and sent General O. L. Mann (then known as Captain) to Washington, with strong commendatory letters to the President and Secretary of War, urging the acceptance of the Regiment, which at this time had over 800 men on the rolls.

The Regiment was accepted on the day succeeding the first Bull Run disaster, and Austin Light, of Chicago, was appointed Colonel; and under his direction the organization was completed, and left Camp Mather, Chicago, on the morning of October 13, 1861. The day previous to the departure, a beautiful stand of colors was presented to the Regiment by Miss Helen Arion, daughter of Colonel Arion. It had also won a handsome flag at a prize drill, under the auspices of the Illinois Agricultural Society, then in session at Chicago.

On leaving Chicago, the Regiment reported to Brigadier General Curtis, at Camp Benton, St. Louis, Missouri.

October 29, the Regiment received orders to proceed to Williamsport, Maryland, where it was fully armed and equipped. December 11, it pressed on to Hancock, Maryland, at which point it crossed the Potomac River, and was distributed in detachments along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, to assist in guarding that important line of transit.

January 3, 1862, the advance of a rebel force 15,000 strong, under command of "Stonewall" Jackson, attacked Companies D, I and K, in the command of Major Mann, near Bath, Virginia, and after a brisk little fight, were repulsed; then, with two pieces of artillery, and a liberal display of strategy and courage, the enemy was held in check for nearly twenty-four hours. Company G, under command of Captain Slaughter, was also attacked at Great Cacapon Bridge, but repulsed the enemy with considerable loss. A heavy force was approaching, and this Company, not being able to ford the Potomac, retreated up the railroad to Cumberland, Maryland. Colonel Osborn, with the remaining portion of the Regiment, was simultaneously attacked at Alpine Station. Companies C and F, in command of Captain Munn, drew into ambush about five hundred (500) of Ashby's Cavalry, and, after killing and wounding 30, routed them. The Regiment finally forded the Potomac, sustaining no serious loss, except in the matter of camp and garrison equipage, and took up a new position on the Maryland shore.

Cumberland was at this period threatened, and the Thirty-ninth was ordered to make a forced march of forty (40) miles, over terrible roads, which was accomplished in the short space of eighteen hours. From Cumberland the Regiment was ordered to New Creek, Virginia, to guard a bridge, and was here assigned to the First Brigade of General Lander's Division, and was soon ordered to Patterson's Creek, below Cumberland. At this period the Regiment suffered seriously from sickness, occasioned by constant exposure and excessive duty. The weather was intensely cold, and cattle cars were the only quarters to be had for the command. But the men endured these hardships for over two months with scarcely a murmur, notwithstanding their comrades were almost daily dying around them. These days and weeks will ever be remembered as being more terrible than were those in which the enemy was confronted on the battlefield.

From Patterson's Creek the Thirty-ninth took the advance, protecting the workmen in repairing the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to Martinsburg. The Regiment from Martinsburg, participated in a reconnoissance to Strasburg, and, on its return, took part in the brilliant fight at Winchester, March 23, 1862, that resulted in the utter defeat of "Stonewall" Jackson's forces. The Regiment suffered but little during the engagement, owing to its position, which was the extreme left. The ensuing day it took the advance in pursuing the enemy down the Shenandoah Valley, as far as New Market, where it was detached and sent into the Luray Valley, to protect bridges over the South Branch of the Shenandoah River.

Major S. W. Munn, in command of four companies, met a small cavalry force at Columbia Bridge, and, after a brisk skirmish, dislodged the enemy, putting out the fire which they had applied to the structure, and capturing thirty (30) prisoners.

The Thirty-ninth left the Valley the 1st of May, 1862, with Shields' Division, and making a continued march of one hundred and fifty (150) miles, reported to General McDowell at Fredericksburg. After one day's rest, the news of General Banks' defeat in the Valley arrived, and the Regiment was ordered back to the Valley, making forced marches over a distance of one hundred and eighty miles. After a few days rest, the Regiment was ordered to Alexandria, Virginia, and immediately embarked on transports for the James River, and reached Harrison's Landing in time to take part in the closing scenes of Generar McClellan's seven days' fight and seven nights' retreat. While at Harrison's Landing, the Regiment was kept at the front, on picket duty, and had a series of unimportant skirmishes, until about the middle of August, when it participated in the second Malvern Hill fight, but without material injury. From this point a number of officers and men were sent away sick.

The Regiment was here assigned to the First Brigade, Peck's Division, Keyes' Corps, and retreated with the army to Fort Monroe. September 1, it was sent to Suffolk, Virginia, where it remained for the space of three months, fortifying the place, and making frequent expeditions to the Blackwater, where heavy skirmishes frequently occurred. On one occasion it participated in the capture of two pieces of artillery and forty prisoners.

At Suffolk, about the first of December, Major S. W. Munn resigned, on account of ill health, and returned home.

On the 23d of January, 1863, the Regiment broke camp, and marched a distance of seventy-five miles, to the Chowan River, where it took transports, and reported to General Foster, at Newbern, North Carolina. Colonel T. O. Osborn was here placed in command of the First Brigade, O. S. Ferry's Division of Foster's Corps. A beautiful flag was here presented to the Regiment, from His Excellency, Governor Yates, bearing his portrait, and which was carried through all the subsequent battles of the Thirty-ninth.

January 20, 1863, the Regiment again embarked, accompanying General Foster's expedition to Hilton Head, South Carolina. It remained in camp on St. Helena Island, South Carolina, for several weeks, where a most favorable opportunity for drill and discipline was diligently improved. An experienced inspecting officer here paid the thirty-ninth a flattering compliment, by pronouncing it the best drilled and the best equipped Regiment in the Division.

The 1st of April, the Regiment took part in General Hunter's expedition against Charleston, and, after landing on Folly Island, took a prominent part in the erection of batteries with which Morris Island was taken.

The Regiment was next ordered on to Morris Island, where it was assigned to General Alfred H. Terry's Division, and again worked zealously and long in the trenches, parallels and forts which resulted in the final capture of Fort Wagner. A day or two previous to the fall of this fort Colonel Osborn was temporarily disabled by the premature discharge of a heavy piece of ordnance. The Regiment formed the advance of their Brigade, temporarily commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Mann, and occupied the trenches on the night that it was discovered the fort was being evacuated. As soon as this fact was known, the Thirty-ninth entered the fort, captured the enemy's rear-guard, cut several fuses that were laid with the design to blow up the structure on the approach of the Union troops, and planted the Regimental colors on the parapet some two hours before the time appointed for the general charge.

At the time the fort was taken possession of, the following telegram was sent to headquarters:

"HEADQUARTERS OFFICER OF THE TRENCHES.

"FORT WAGNER, MORRIS ISLAND, S. C., August 7th, 1863.

"To Major General Q. A. Gilmore:

"The Field Officer of the Trenches sends his compliments and congratulations to the Major General commanding, from the bomb-proofs of fallen Fort Wagner, and wishes to assure him that his confidence in God and General Gilmore is yet unshaken."

A portion of the Thirty-ninth temporarily garrisoned this work, and the balance occupied Fort Gregg, which fell simultaneously with Fort Wagner. Captain J. Woodruff, a very gallant officer, was killed about this time in Fort Gregg, by a shell thrown from the enemy's batteries on Sullivan's Island. The loss in killed and wounded during these four months of siege duty was not very heavy, compared to the constant bombardment to which the Regiment was subjected; yet it was far more trying to the nerve and courage of the command than a hotly contested battle would have been.

After assisting in strengthening and remodeling the defenses on Morris Island, the Thirty-ninth returned to Folly Island, and soon embarked for Hilton Head, where the Regiment remained for several weeks, and then re-enlisted, being the first organization in the Department to accept Veteran honors and responsibilities. It left Hilton Head on veteran furlough, for Chicago, Illinois, via New York, on the 1st of January, 1864, amid great enthusiasm. An entire Brigade, with several Generals and their Staffs, turned out to escort it to the place of embarkation. The Regiment reached Chicago the middle of January, 450 strong, and was tendered a fine ovation by the citizens, in Bryan Hall.

After the Regiment had been recruited to seven hundred and fifty (750) strong, it left, early in March, 1864, for Washington, D. C., and from thence sailed to Georgetown, Virginia, where it was assigned to the First Brigade, First Division, Tenth Army Corps. It then embarked, the 5th day of May, 1864, with General Butler's expedition up the James River. On reaching Bermuda Hundred, the Regiment took the advance on the march into the interior for several miles, when the entire command was halted, and intrenchments thrown up. After remaining for a day or two, the whole column was moved forward to Drury's Bluff. The Thirty-ninth was located on the extreme left of General Butler's command on the 16th day of May, 1864, when the entire force under Butler was attacked and driven back. The Regiment was at one time completely surrounded by the enemy, but succeeded in cutting their way out, after great loss. To use General Butler's own words, "the Thirty-ninth fought most gallantly, and have suffered most severely." Colonel Osborn, Major Linton, Captain Phillips, Captain Wheeler, Lieutenant Kidder and Lieutenant Kingsbury were all wounded—the latter losing an arm. Captain James Wightman and Adjutant J. D. Walker were killed while gallantly cheering on the men. The entire loss in this engagement, including killed, wounded and missing, reached nearly two hundred (200).

The Regiment was again ordered out on the 20th of May, to dislodge the enemy from some temporary works near Wier Bottom Church, which was accomplished in a most gallant manner, with a loss of forty (40) in killed and wounded. The Thirty-ninth captured in this charge a large number of prisoners, including General Walker, who was seriously wounded. Lieutenant Colonel Mann was also seriously wounded in this engagement, thus leaving the command without a field officer. Colonel Munn was incapacitated for field duty the rest of the winter. General Mann read his farewell order to the remnant of his old command.

At this place, Surgeon Charles M. Clark, who had previously been detached from the Regiment as Operating Surgeon, was placed in charge of the Tenth Army Corps Flying Hospital—a position which he filled with acknowledged skill and ability. After the merging of the Tenth and Eighteenth Corps into the Twenty-fourth Army Corps, Surgeon Clark was appointed Chief Operating Surgeon of the Corps, which position he retained until the surrender of the rebel army. Subsequently, he was placed in charge of the Military Hospital at Richmond, where he remained until its final abandonment in September, 1865, being then ordered to Norfolk, Virginia, as chief medical officer of the district, and in charge of the Post Hospital.

On the 2d of June, the Regiment was again called into action, on nearly the same ground as on the 20th of May, in which engagement it lost, in killed, wounded and missing, some forty (40) men. Lieutenant Albert W. Fellows was killed soon after the action commenced, and Lieutenant Al. C. Sweetzer was severely wounded in both legs, losing one by amputation above the knee.

On the 16th, 17th and 18th days of June, the Regiment came in contact with General Longstreet's Corps, near the Petersburg and Richmond pike, and fought him night and day. Captain O. F. Rudd, a most accomplished officer, was mortally wounded in this affair, and the Regiment lost about thirty-five (35) men in killed and wounded.

On the 14th day of August, the Regiment crossed to the north side of the James River, and operated with the Army of the James, in conjunction with the Second Corps, under the direction of General Grant, in a reconnoissance toward the works near Richmond. On the 16th, the Brigade to which the Thirty-ninth was attached was ordered to charge the works of the enemy at Deep Run. The enemy offered a most stubborn resistance, not giving back even when our men mounted their works, and fought them hand to hand; but Western valor proved more than a match for them. Our boys broke their lines, capturing a large number of prisoners.

During the action, and just after gaining the earth-works, Henry M. Hardenburg, a private of Company G, encountered the Color Sergeant of an Alabama Regiment, carrying its regimental colors. A desperate conflict at once took place between the two—one to capture and the other to defend that stand of colors. After several minutes hard fighting, in which both received wounds, Hardenburg dispatched his enemy, and captured the colors, which he presented in person to Major General Birney, commanding Tenth Corps. General Butler, learning of the affair, promoted Private Hardenburg to a First Lieutenant in a colored regiment; but the brave boy was shot dead while in the trenches before Petersburg, September 28, 1864, two days before his commission arrived.

In this battle of 16th of August, the Thirty-ninth lost one hundred and four (104) men, in killed, wounded and missing. Captain L. A. Baker, commanding the Regiment, was shot through the leg, causing amputation; Captain Chauncey Williams and Lieutenant John Frane were killed, Lieutenant James Lemons mortally wounded, Lieutenant N. C. Warner seriously wounded and leg amputated, and Lieutenant C. F. Knapp and Lieutenant M. L. Butterfield were slightly wounded.

In the latter part of August, the Regiment was ordered to the trenches in front of Petersburg, where it was almost constantly on duty, and under fire both night and day. In the latter part of September, the Tenth and Eighteenth Corps moved over to the north side of the James River again, and on the 7th of October the Thirty-ninth met the enemy, near Chapin's farm, who made three desperate charges upon the hastily constructed works behind which our boys were stationed. But they were driven back each time, with fearful loss to the Union troops.

On the 13th of October, the Thirty-ninth took part in a charge, under command of Major General A. H. Terry, upon the enemy's works near Darlington road, seven miles from Richmond. Out of about two hundred and fifty (250) men who went into that charge, sixty fell, struck by the enemy. Captain George Heritage, commanding the Regiment, was severely wounded in two places, Lieutenant C. J. Wilder was killed, and Lieutenant N. E. Davis mortally wounded. The Regiment now fell under command of First Lieutenant James Hannum, Company C, there being but two other officers besides himself left—one the Adjutant, the other a Second Lieutenant—the balance killed, or absent, wounded. Several, however, had previously been mustered out, by reason of expiration of service.

On the 27th of October, the Regiment took part in a reconnoissance near the place last mentioned, and had a brisk engagement with the enemy. In November, Colonel Osborn returned to the Regiment, but not fully recovered from his wounds. He was soon placed in command of the First Brigade, First Division, Twenty-fourth Corps, to which the Thirty-ninth was attached. In December, First Lieutenant H. A. Plimpton, having received a Captain's commission, and being mustered on the same, took command of the Regiment. During the winter, the Thirty-ninth remained behind the works on the north side of the James, where it was thoroughly equipped anew, and attained great proficiency in drill, for which it had excellent advantages, that were well improved.

During the winter it had frequent skirmishes with the enemy, but no regular engagement. In March, it received about one hundred recruits, and on the 27th of the same month took part in the military movements which finally resulted in wresting the strongholds of Petersburg and Richmond from the grasp of the enemy. It crossed to the left of the Army of the Potomac, and on the 2d day of April took part in the charge upon Fort Gregg, the key to the works about Petersburg and Richmond. It was an inclosed work, situated upon an eminence, the country surrounding which was open, and commanded by five other forts and redoubts. Immediately surrounding it was a ditch six feet deep and twelve feet wide. It fell to the lot of the First Brigade to charge and take the fort; and the Thirty-ninth was the first Regiment to gain the ditch, and the first to plant her flag upon the structure. Out of nine of her color-guard, seven were shot down. After gaining the ditch the conflict became most desperate. On account of the abruptness and slippery nature of the side of the ditch, it was only by digging foot-holds in the earth, with swords and bayonets, that the boys were enabled to gain the parapet, where the struggle was hand-to-hand, and lasted for the period of half an hour ere success crowned the effort, which was the capture of the fort and the entire garrison. Out of one hundred and fifty (150) members of the Thirty-ninth who went into that fight, (the balance of the Regiment being on picket duty,) sixteen (16) were shot dead, and now lie buried where they fell, and forty-five (45) more severely wounded, many of whom have since died.

For the gallantry displayed by the Thirty-ninth in this charge, a magnificent brazen eagle, cast for the purpose, was presented and placed upon the regimental color staff by the hand of Major General John Gibbons, at the time of a grand review of the Corps. The eagle bore the following inscription; "Presented to the Thirty-ninth Illinois Veteran Volunteers, by Major General John Gibbon, commanding Twenty-fourth Army Corps, for gallantry in the assault upon Fort Gregg, Petersburg, Virginia, April 2, 1865." The Color Sergeant, Henry M. Day, who was severely wounded while planting the colors upon the fort, was rewarded by a medal of honor from the War Department. Colonel Thomas O. Osborn was appointed a Brigadier General by brevet, and Captain H. A. Plimpton a Major by brevet, for gallantry on the occasion. After this affair, the Regiment took the advance of the Army of the James in the pursuit after General Lee, and succeeded in heading his army off after forced marches (forty miles in one day) and frequent skirmishes at Appomattox Court House, and where, after a brisk engagement on the 9th day of April, 1865, in which the Thirty-ninth had several men wounded, it had the proud satisfaction of witnessing the final surrender of General Robert E. Lee, with his great Army of Northern Virginia.

The Regiment was retained at Appomattox Court House for several days, as guard over the baggage and camps of the conquered army. It was then ordered to Richmond, where it remained until August. On the 11th of May, 1865, Brevet Brigadier General Osborn was made full Brigadier General, and Brevet Major Plimpton, full Major.

From Richmond, the Regiment was sent to Norfolk, Virginia, reporting to Brevet Brigadier General O. L. Mann, Colonel of the Regiment, who, after recovering partially from his wounds received on the 20th day of May, 1864, had been appointed in January, 1865, Provost Marshal for the District of Eastern Virginia, and soon after breveted Brigadier General and placed in command of said district.

The Thirty-ninth remained on duty at Norfolk until the 5th day of December, 1865, at which time General Order No. 131 was issued from Headquarters, Department of Virginia, ordering its muster-out of service, which was accomplished on the 6th of December, and on the afternoon of the 7th, the Regiment started for Springfield, Illinois, for its final muster-out and payment, via Chicago, where it arrived on the afternoon of the 10th of December. The following morning it continued its way to Springfield, arriving at Camp Butler on the morning of the 12th inst.

On the morning of December 16th, the Regiment, prior to its final payment, was assembled in the chapel, where the ceremony of surrendering the flags of the Regiment to the State authorities transpired. The Adjutant General, thanking them for their gallantry, and congratulating them on the happy termination of their services, received the old battle-worn relics, making a brief but appropriate speech. General Mann read his farewell order to the remnant of his old command.

The Regiment was then paid off by companies, and 'ere the day closed, the gallant old Thirty-ninth Regiment of Illinois Volunteers, ceased to exist as an organization.

HISTORY OF FORTIETH INFANTRY.

The Fortieth Infantry was enlisted from the counties of Franklin, Hamilton, Wayne, White, Wabash, Marion, Clay and Fayette. The Regiment, with ten companies, reported at Springfield, Ill., and on the 10th of August, 1861, was mustered into the service for three years. Moved to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., Aug. 13 and remained there until the 30th of the same month, when the Regiment was moved to Bird's Point, thence to Paducah, Ky., Sept. 8, 1861. Here eight companies encamped during the winter, drilling and doing guard duty; two, A and F, were detached doing like duty at Smithland, Ky. While at Paducah the Twelfth, Fortieth and Forty-first Regiments Illinois Volunteers and Buell's Battery were organized into a Brigade commanded by General E. A. Payne. In March, 1862, General Sherman organized the Fortieth Illinois, Forty-sixth Ohio and Morton's Battery into a Brigade commanded by Colonel Hicks, of the Fortieth Illinois, the Fortieth in command of Lieutenant Colonel Booth.

On the 10th of March, 1862, the entire Division, aboard transports, steamed up the Tennessee River to Eastport, Ala., but effected no landing because of rebel fortifications and high waters. Dropped down the river on the 17th of March to Pittsburg Landing.

The First Brigade on re-organization was composed of the Sixth Iowa, Fortieth Illinois, Forty-sixth Ohio and Morton's Battery, Colonel McDowall, of the Sixth Iowa, commanding.

The Regiment was engaged in the battle of Shiloh. Colonel Hicks was severely wounded the first day. The Regiment lost in this battle one commissioned officer killed and three wounded; 42 men killed and 148 wounded.

The Fortieth Illinois is one of the regiments General Sherman complimented for standing, at his request, when their cartridge boxes were empty, in the face of the enemy under heavy fire.

The Regiment, after the battle of Shiloh, was moved to Corinth, there participating in the engagements of the seige until the fall of the city. Then the Regiment was ordered to Memphis, reaching there July 21, 1862, and encamped until Nov. 26. Thence moved toward the rear of Vicksburg to College Hill, Miss. Returned to Holly Springs. Moved from Holly Springs to Davis' Mills in Northern Mississippi, where the Regiment went into winter quarters. On the 17th of April, 1863, the Regiment started for a nine days' scout through Northern Mississippi, stopping at LaGrange on the 25th of June. Started for Vicksburg June 7 via Memphis, Tenn., stopping at Sneider's Bluff in the rear of Vicksburg, where the Regiment remained until the 23d of June, 1863, when it was moved with Sherman's command to Black River, Miss., confronting Johnston's army until the fall of Vicksburg. The Regiment then went in pursuit of Johnston's army, with Sherman's command, to Jackson, Miss., skirmishing all the way. Was engaged in the battle at Jackson, Miss., July 16th, and the officers and men of the Regiment were complimented in public orders for bravery and gallant conduct.

After this battle the Regiment was engaged in destroying bridges and railroads in and around the city of Jackson, Miss.; thence returning to Black River in the rear of Vicksburg, going into camp until the 25th day of September, 1863.

During the siege of Vicksburg and the campaign around Jackson, Miss., the Regiment operated with the Ninth Army Corps in the Division commanded by General W. S. Smith, Brigade by Colonel S. G. Hicks and the Regiment by Major H. W. Hall. On the 25th of September the Division to which the Regiment belonged, by order, became the Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, and marched into Vicksburg, and embarked for Memphis. From Memphis marched across the country to Chattanooga by way of Corinth, Eastport, Ala., Florence, Ala., Stevenson, Ala., reaching Brown's Ferry, two miles below Chattanooga, Nov. 22, 1863.

While on this march five companies, B, D, F, H and K, were mounted and separated from the Regiment, scouting, until the 28th of December, 1863. The other companies, A, C, E, I and G, under the immediate command of Major H. W. Hall, on reaching the Tennessee River at Brown's Ferry, were left in charge of a wagon train. At 10 o'clock P. M., on the 23d of November, 1863, the Major received a dispatch from General J. W. Corse, stating that the grand attack would begin in the morning.

By means of a small boat the Regiment crossed the river, reaching the command at 1 A. M. of Nov. 24th. At daylight crossed at the mouth of Chickamauga creek and captured a high hill, driving back the enemy; placed a battery in position at its top and supported it through the night. At daylight on the morning of the 25th, the Regiment was deployed and under fire led the assaulting column upon the enemy's works on Mission Ridge, drove in the enemy's pickets and scaled his works, losing several men inside. The enemy was being strongly reinforced in front, and the Regiment being unsupported was compelled to fall back under cover of the hill. The enemy with heavy reinforcements charged upon the Fortieth. The battery the Regiment had supported during the night poured a deadly fire into the enemy's ranks and checked his advance, but at the same time the battery made sad work in the ranks of the Fortieth, killing and wounding its own men. Again the Fortieth was deployed and assaulted the enemy's works, supported by the brigade. Major Hall gave the order not to retreat if the support failed them, but to lie down and protect themselves in every way they could from the enemy's fire. General Corse was wounded, the Brigade fell back and the Fortieth laid down and continued in the enemy's front, and picking off the enemy's gunners, silenced the batteries and kept them quiet until a heavy assault on the right engaged the forces of the enemy, and the Regiment was enabled to withdraw. Of the five companies, numbering one hundred and thirty men, seven were killed and forty-four wounded, many of them mortally.

On the 26th, the Regiment pursued the retreating enemy, skirmishing in the rain all day and capturing many prisoners. On the 29th moved forward to relieve Burnsides at Knoxville.

On the march the Regiment subsisted off the country, and for several days all supplies were gathered on the march. On the 5th of December, crossed the Tennessee at Morgantown on a temporary bridge hastily constructed by the Pioneer Corps. Marched to Marysville; then fearing that the enemy had raised the siege at Knoxville, command returned to Chattanooga, thence to Scottsboro, Ala., where the scouting companies rejoined the Regiment, and all went into winter quarters.

Here the Regiment took the initiative in the work of re-enlisting, spreading such enthusiasm that in one entire Division (General Ewing's) there were not more than 50 men eligible for the Veteran service who did not re-enlist. January 1, 1864, the Fortieth was mustered as a Veteran Regiment. At that date its aggregate strength was 443. During the two years and five months' service: deaths, 261; other casualties, 196; discharged, 17; transferred to other commands, 6; missing in action, and desertion, 17. In March the Veterans of the Regiment took their 30 days' furlough, after which they started on the great Atlantic Campaign. Lieutenant Colonel Barnhill, being relieved from detached service, took command of the Regiment, and retained it until the assault on Kenesaw Mountain, where he was killed, on the 27th of June, 1864. The command again devolved on Major H. W. Hall, who was promoted Lieutenant Colonel, and retained command until the close of the war.

At the assault on Kenesaw, the Regiment led an assaulting column to the enemy's works. The assault was a failure, and the Regiment suffered severely. The Regiment was actively engaged in all the marches, skirmishes and battles which finally resulted in the capture of Atlanta, Ga. On the 22d of July, 1864, it was attacked in the rear, and before it had entirely checked the enemy, it was assaulted in front, and fought on both sides of its works,—first driving back Hardee, then jumping the parapets to receive the attack of Stewart's command, holding its position until dark, when the enemy fell back, leaving many of his number killed and wounded.

The Regiment was moved from the east to the west of Atlanta, and while on the move, on the 28th of July, 1864, the rebels under Hardee and Lee sallied from their works on the Ball's Ferry road, and attacked the Fifteenth Corps with great fury, breaking through the Second Division (General W. S. Smith's). The Fortieth Illinois and Sixth Iowa were sent from the Fourth Division to check the enemy. Moving at double-quick into the breach they checked the enemy, hurling it back, and as many as six times successively drove it back, in each instance with great slaughter. Major Ennis, commanding Sixth Iowa, was killed, and Lieutenant Colonel Hall, commanding Fortieth Illinois, was severely wounded. The struggle was severe, and the loss of the Regiment heavy, but it held its position until the enemy fell back.

August 31, 1864, near Jonesboro, Ga., the Fortieth was warmly engaged, holding its position for two hours during heavy fighting, until the enemy was repulsed, leaving his killed and wounded on the field.

Three years having expired, the non-Veterans were mustered out of the service and sent home, together with all the wounded able to endure the journey. The Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, being broken up, the Fortieth Illinois was transferred to the First Division, same Corps, with which it remained until the war closed.

The Regiment did hard marching, following Hood's army towards Chattanooga and off into northern Alabama; then returned to Atlanta, and was employed for a time destroying railroad tracks in and around Atlanta. November 16th, 1864, the Regiment, under Lieutenant Colonel Hall, started on the "march through Georgia," well supplied with cartridges, and a limited amount of coffee, sugar and hard bread, and a double allowance of salt. November, 22, 1864, early in the morning, the Fortieth Illinois, in advance of Walcott's Brigade, met the Georgia Militia at Griswoldville, east of Macon, where the Brigade, consisting of the Fortieth Illinois, Forty-sixth Ohio, Sixth Iowa, and a battery, repulsed the enemy twice, and drove him back in the direction of Macon. The Regiment buried its dead, took its wounded in ambulances, and marched on the same night, meeting but slight opposition until it reached the Ogeechee River, near the city of Savannah, Ga., reaching there about December 10, 1864. Crossed on a pontoon bridge, and skirmishing with the enemy, drove him back into his fortifications, and the investment of the city began. From this time until December 21, 1864, the Regiment was constantly employed, either on the skirmish line or strengthening its works. The city surrendered, and the Regiment marched into it December 21, 1864, and was on duty in the city until the commencement of the march northward.

The Regiment left Savannah, marched to Thunderbolt and was transported to Beaufort, S. C., landed, and from there marched through South Carolina by way of Pocotaligo and Barnwell to Columbus. On February 13, 1865, the Regiment being the advance, met the enemy's cavalry early in the morning, and drove them all day until they fell back into their works in the evening, when artillery opened upon the Regiment, causing it to halt. On February 20, marched out of Columbus on the Waynesboro road, crossed the Wateree River on a pontoon bridge at Dixon's Ferry. Entered Cheraw, S. C., March 4, and crossed the Great Pedee March 5. Entered Fayetteville, N. C., March 14, and crossed the Cape Fear River. While marching on the Goldsboro road on the 19th, heavy artillery firing was heard on the left. The Regiment advanced in the direction of the firing, met the enemy, and at Bentonville, N. C., where he made a stubborn resistance, the Regiment was hotly engaged.

March 22, entered Bentonville. March 24, marched into Goldsboro, remaining until April 10. Marched in the direction of Raleigh, N. C., skirmishing with the enemy on the way. On April 11 and 12, the Regiment was engaged in skirmishes with the enemy.

On April 13, near Raleigh, N. C., the Regiment got the news of Lee's surrender to General Grant. On April 14, entered Raleigh and went into camp on Beaver Dam Creek, and remained until General Johnston's army surrendered to General Sherman, April 29. Then the Regiment marched in the direction of "Home, Sweet Home," crossed the Roanoke River on a pontoon at Robertson's Ferry, reaching Petersburg May 7. On May 9, passed through Petersburg, Va., and on the 10th camped at Manchester, opposite Richmond.

On May 13, crossed James River at Libby Prison, and passed in review through the "Confederate capital."

On May 15, at Hanover C. H., received a Richmond paper announcing the capture of Jeff Davis and family.

On May 17, reached Fredericksburg, now of such historic fame.

On May 17, 1865, reached Mount Vernon, paid respect to the tomb and home of Washington, inspecting them minutely.

The Regiment took part in the Grand Review in Washington City, where it was highly complimented for its gallant services. Remained in camp near the city a few days, then moved by rail to Parkersburg, W. Virginia, and from there by steamboat to Louisville, Ky., where the Regiment was mustered out of service July 24, 1865, and sent to Springfield, Ill., and paid off.

The Regiment served four years, and was actively engaged in the two days' battle at Shiloh, Tenn.; siege of Corinth, Miss.; siege of Vicksburg, Miss.; Jackson, Miss.; battle of Mission Ridge, Tenn.; New Hope Church, Ga.; Black Jack Knob, Ga.; Kenesaw Mountain, Ga.; Atlanta, Ga, July 22 and 28, 1864; Ezra Chapel, Ga.; Jonesboro, Ga.; Griswoldville, Ga.; siege of Savannah, Ga.; battles on Cumbahe River, S. C., Columbus, S. C., and Bentonville, N. C. After the fall of Atlanta many of the old officers were mustered out because of the expiration of their term of service. Only three of the original officers remained with the Regiment the entire four years, and were present and mustered out with it; one of whom Captain H. W. Hall, was promoted and commanded the Regiment in all its battles after Shiloh. Second Assistant Surgeon Wm. Graham was promoted Surgeon, and served with the Regiment to the close. Second Lieutenant Wm. H. Summers, Co. E, served with his command and was mustered out with the rank of Major. The aggregate loss of the Regiment in its four years' service, as reported by T. M. Eddy, D. D., in his "Patriotism of Illinois," is set down at 395.

HISTORY OF FORTY-FIRST INFANTRY.

The Forty-first Infantry was organized at Decatur during July and August, 1861, by Colonel Isaac C. Pugh. Company A was from Decatur, Company B from Sullivan and Bethany, Companies C, F and K were from Clinton and DeWitt county, Company E from Blue Mound, Company G from Taylorville, Company I from Mt. Auburn and Illiopolis, Company D from Mattoon and Company H from Shelbyville. It was mustered into the United States service August 5th. August 8th it moved to St. Louis, and remained at the Arsenal until the 29th, when it was moved to Bird's Point, and was assigned to the command of General Prentiss. September 8th, moved with other troops, under General U. S. Grant, to Paducah; assisted in fortifying Paducah.

Companies B and I, under command of Major John Warner, were sent to Smithland, together with two companies of the Twelfth Infantry, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Chetlain. Assisted in fortifying the place. The main portion of the Regiment remained at Paducah, and with other troops, under General C. F. Smith, made marches to Mellborne, Lovelettsville and Columbus, returning November 19th. Marched to Crown Point December 31st.

February 5, 1862, the Regiment moved to Fort Henry, arriving just as the gunboats, under command of Commodore Foote, formed their line of battle to attack the fort. The attack was short and decisive, resulting in the capture of the fort and the rebel General Lloyd Tillighman, who was in command. The Forty-first was in the command of General C. F. Smith; assisted in the capture of Fort Heiman.

February 11th, moved to Fort Donelson, and was assigned to General John A. McClernand's Division, with Colonel John McArthur as Brigade Commander, the Ninth, Twelfth and Forty-first Illinois Infantry forming the Brigade. The Forty-first was on the extreme right, next to the backwater of the Cumberland River, and was the first Regiment engaged in the desperate struggle of the 15th, when the rebel army, under Floyd, Pillow and Buckner, attempted to cut their way out. A desperate battle ensued. This was the first general fight the Regiment had participated in. Being overpowered, it, with the Eighth, Ninth, Twelfth, Eighteenth, and in fact the entire Division, was driven back, but not until they had suffered severely and exhausted their ammunition. The Forty-first lost some 200 in killed and wounded. Colonel Pugh had eleven holes shot in his clothing.

March 10th, moved back to Fort Henry, with the army under General Smith; went on board the transports and proceeded up the Tennessee River to Pittsburg Landing. The Forty-first was the first to land at that historic place, but there was no enemy there at that time.

In the organization of the army after the battle of Fort Donelson, the Regiment was assigned to General S. A. Hurlbut's Division, which occupied the left wing of the army at Shiloh. The Regiment participated in the desperate battle of the 6th and 7th of April, forming the left wing of what the Confederates called the hornet's nest. The Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Twenty-eighth were on the right of the Forty-first, and the Ninth on the left. In the battle of the 6th, the Forty-first was under fire fully six hours, and lost near 200 in killed and wounded, including the gallant Lieutenant Colonel Ansel B. Tupper, who fell pierced in the head by a rebel bullet, and died in a few hours. The Regiment was complimented on the battlefield, by General Hurlbut, for its gallantry throughout the entire battle. Early in the engagement Colonel Williams, of the Third Iowa, was wounded, and the command of the Brigade fell upon Colonel Pugh, who handled the troops admirably, and assisted in repelling three assaults of the enemy at the peach orchard, on the forenoon of the 6th. After the death of Colonel Tupper the command of the Regiment devolved upon Major John Warner, who maintained the good order of the command.

The Forty-first formed part of the last line of defense at Shiloh, in the battle of Sunday, and under the personal supervision of General Grant assisted in repulsing the rebel forces, driving them back beyond the reach of our gunboats, and thus closed its work on the first day at Shiloh. On the 7th, the Regiment made one charge, and assisted in driving the enemy from his position on the right wing. In this engagement the loss of the Forty-first was severe in killed and wounded.

The Forty-first took part in the siege of Corinth, where the army under General Halleck was 25 days moving 24 miles. After the capture of Corinth, the Forty-first marched through Northern Mississippi and Western Tennessee for Memphis, via Grand Junction, Holly Springs and Germantown, arriving there July 21, where it remained until September 6, when, with Hurlbut's Division, it was sent to Bolivar, Tenn.

October 4th, made a forced march with the Division, and intercepted the rebel army under Generals Price and Van Dorn, on the Hatchie River, which was retreating from what was known as the second battle of Corinth. On the Federal side, in the battle of the Hatchie, some 500 prisoners were captured and a battery of Artillery, besides much of the rebel supply-train and baggage. The Forty-first followed the retreating enemy until a junction was formed between Rosecrans, McPherson and Hurlbut.

Returning to Grand Junction, the Regiment went with the army under Grant on the march towards Vicksburg, through Mississippi to Oxford. When Holly Springs was captured, the army returned, going into quarters in Moscow, Tennessee, on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, where it guarded the road until March, 1863, when it was ordered again to Memphis. Arriving there March 10th, was assigned to the Sixteenth Army Corps, commanded by General Hurlbut.

While at Memphis, the question arose between Generals Hurlbut and Lauman which was the best drilled regiment in the Division. Hurlbut held that the Fourteenth was best, while Lauman contended that the Forty-first was the superior. Each regiment was ordered to headquarters the next day for dress parade. Our commander, Lieutenant Colonel J. W. Nale, received a challenge from Colonel Cain, of the Fourteenth, for a prize drill. The drill came off March 26th, at General Lauman's headquarters. It was witnessed by some 10,000 citizens and soldiers. Three U. S. Army officers were selected as judges, who unanimously gave the decision in favor of the Forty-first. The ladies of Memphis presented the Regiment with a magnificent wreath of flowers. General Oglesby had just returned from Illinois, where he had been since receiving the terrible wound at Corinth. He sent for the Regiment to return to headquarters, when he made an eloquent speech, highly complimenting it, and reciting good news from home.

April 12th, with the Twelfth and Thirty-third Wisconsin, and the Fifth Ohio Battery, moved on the Hernando expedition. Met the rebel General Chalmers on Cold Water River; double-quicking three miles to fight three hours. Returned to Memphis.

May 12th, started with Hurlbut's army on transports for Vicksburg. On the way was fired into at Greenville, Mississippi, by rebel batteries. Several of the Third Iowa were wounded. Landed and chased the rebels off, when the army proceeded to Vicksburg.

Landed at Haines' Bluff May 22, and was assigned to the Thirteenth Army Corps, General John A. McClernand commanding, where the Regiment took part in the forty-seven days' siege, during which time it lost some 50 in killed and wounded.

July 5th, moved with Sherman's army to Jackson. Arriving the 11th, was assigned to the extreme right wing, between the railroad and Pearl River, on the south of Jackson.

On Sunday, July 12th, the Third Iowa, Twenty-eighth, Forty-first and Fifty-third Illinois, under command of Colonel Pugh, were ordered to close up the gap between Hovey's Division and Pearl River. General Lauman commanded the Division, and General Ord the Corps. In moving up, the Brigade had gone as far as troops could go, when they were ordered by Colonel Pugh to halt and lie down. General Lauman ordered him forward, and the four regiments made a desperate charge on the enemy's works. They were met by General Breckenridge's rebel Corps, consisting of the Louisiana Brigade, General Adams commanding; the Kentucky Brigade, General Helm commanding; the Florida Brigade, General Storall commanding; Mebeau's Tennessee Battery, Cobbs' Kentucky Battery, Austin's Louisiana Sharpshooters, and Slocum's Fifth Louisiana Artillery. In this charge the regiments herein named lost more than two-thirds of the men who went into the engagement, including many line and field officers. Major Frank M. Long, of the Forty-first, was shot and captured, dying next day, after having his leg amputated, at the rebel hospital. Several flags were captured, including those of the Twenty-eighth and Fifty-third, and the regimental flag of the Forty-first. The latter was shot down five times, the color bearer being killed each time. Sergeant H. M. Strearer, who carried the National colors of the Forty-first, was severely wounded, but he carried the flag, torn and tattered, in triumph off the field.

As soon as Colonel Pugh's voice could be heard above the din of battle, he ordered a retreat, but it was too late; many had passed over the rebel works and were prisoners; many others had been killed upon the spot. In this engagement the Forty-first lost in killed, wounded and prisoners near 200. The company to which the writer belonged lost 21 out of 30 who went into the action. For this mistake General Lauman was put under arrest, court-martialed, and dismissed the service.

Returning to Vicksburg, the Forty-first was assigned to the Seventeenth Army Corps, General McPherson commanding.

November 18th, the Brigade moved to Natchez, Miss.

December 16th, returned to Vicksburg, and went into camp on Big Black River. There nearly 200 of the Regiment re-enlisted as veterans March 17, 1864, when they were given thirty days furlough.

The non-veterans moved up Red River, participating in the campaign under General A. J. Smith and General Banks, taking part in all the battles and skirmishes of that disastrous campaign.

When the veterans arrived at Camp Yates, a dispatch was received that a riot was in progress at Charleston, Illinois, in which Major York and several of the Fifty-fourth Infantry had been shot by the rebel sympathizers. Colonel Pugh hurried forward with his Regiment to Mattoon, arriving at night. He found the whole city arroused, and many of the citizens under arms. From Mattoon the Regiment was sent to Windsor, ten miles south, where a camp of 1,500 rebel sympathizers was reported, but on arriving there no one was found under arms, and the Regiment returned to Mattoon, where it dispersed on its furlough of thirty days, at the expiration of which it moved to Cairo; thence to Nashville. From Nashville it was sent to Tunnel Hill, where the rebels had torn up the railroad, to guard the line of communication with Atlanta. Thence it moved to Moon Station, Big Shanty, Marietta and Kenesaw Mountain. While camped at Marietta, July 21st, the term of service of the men who did not re-enlist expired, and they returned home, under command of Colonel Pugh.

When the body of General McPherson, who was killed on the 22d of July, was sent home the Forty-first, commanded by Major G. R. Steele, was sent as an escort.

The Regiment participated in the battle of Guntown. After this bloody engagement, it was organized as a battalion under the command of Major R. H. McFadden and was stationed at the base of Kenesaw Mountain when General Hood made his celebrated move around General Sherman's army at Atlanta. The battalion had some lively skirmishing east of Kenesaw with the rebel General French's Division of General Stewart's Corps.

The Forty-first was present on Kenesaw Mountain and witnessed the brilliant struggle at Allatoona, when General Sherman sent the famous dispatch to General Corse to "hold the fort, I am coming," and when the equally famous dispatch of General Corse was received, which was in these words: "I am short a cheek-bone and an ear, but I am able to whip all hell yet."

The Forty-first assisted in the destruction of the railroad at Atlanta and joined the main army on the march to the sea, being in the Seventeenth Army Corps.

Arrived at Savannah, Ga., December 4; camped near the old French cemetery, doing guard duty at the custom house, where there were 25,000 bales of cotton.

January 4, 1865, the Forty-first was, by order of General O. O. Howard, consolidated with the Fifty-third Illinois Infantry, forming companies H and G. For further history see Fifty-third Infantry.

HISTORY OF FORTY-THIRD INFANTRY.

The Forty-third Regiment Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler in September, 1861, by Colonel Julius Raith, and was mustered into the service of the United States by Captain Pitcher, U. S. A., on October 12th.

On October 13th the Regiment, containing only eight companies, moved by railroad to Benton Barracks, St. Louis, Mo., where it was armed with old Harper's Ferry and English Tower muskets, changed from flint locks to percussion guns.

On November 3, the Regiment moved by rail to Tipton, Mo. On the 4th to Otterville, also by rail.

On December 30-31, the Regiment had the first march from Otterville back to Tipton.

January 20-21, the Regiment moved by rail to Benton Barracks, where companies I and K were added to it. The Regiment was here armed with new Belgian rifles, an excellent arm, but very heavy.

On February 6th the Regiment, 800 strong, embarked on the steamer Memphis, which also carried Berge's Sharpshooters, arriving at Fort Henry, on the Tennessee River, on the night of February 8th.

On February 24th the Regiment was assigned to the Third Brigade, commanded by Brigadier General L. F. Ross, of McClernand's Division of the Army of West Tennessee, and marched on the 25th and 26th to Fort Donelson.

Left Fort Donelson on March 4th; arrived at Bell's Landing on the 5th; got aboard the steamer Eugenie on the 7th, arriving at Savannah on the 12th.

On the 18th the Forty-third, with the Seventeenth and Forty-fifth Illinois, and Stewart's Cavalry and two of Taylor's Howitzers, marched to Pinhook, returning to Savannah on the 19th.

On the 22d, moved by steamer to Pittsburg Landing, and was with the other regiments of Ross's Brigade assigned camping ground near, and northeast of Shiloh Church.

On the morning of Sunday, April 6th, Colonel Raith heard the sound of battle, had the Regiment assembled, the tents taken down, the wagons loaded, and the Regiment paraded on the color line. He had sent Lieutenant Colonel Engelmann to General McClernand to inform him of the approaching battle, where Lieutenant Colonel Engelmann was instructed to tell Colonel Reardon, of the Twenty-ninth Illinois, to assume command of the Brigade, as General L. J. Ross had gone to Illinois on furlough. Colonel Reardon being sick, the command of the Brigade devolved upon Colonel Julius Raith. His own Regiment, the Forty-third, was the only one ready for action. The staff officers of the Brigade were half a mile away, at the Brigade headquarters. Beside the mounted officers of his own Regiment, he had no assistance in turning out the other regiments of the Brigade. He ordered Colonel Engelmann to turn out the Forty-ninth, which was to the left of the Forty-third, but the men of that Regiment could only sieze their muskets and accoutrements when the enemy was upon them. They had no time to form line. Lieutenant Colonel Engelmann now had to assume command of the Forty-third, which for a long time alone supported the Waterhouse Battery and with it offered a stubborn resistance to the enemy, leaving in this first position 36 of its number dead, whilst many had been carried severely wounded to the rear. (See Greeley's history of this battle.) The Forty-third next took position on the Purdy road, with McClernand's Division. Here Colonel Raith was mortally wounded, dying on 11th. This line giving way, the Forty-third was next assigned a position by Captain Hammond, of General Sherman's staff, in a compact line of troops facing the Purdy Roads. This line also giving way, the Forty-third took a position with the Twentieth Illinois. All other Union troops having disappeared, the Forty-third slowly fell back to a position facing towards the west, an open field, and immediately to the left of the camp of the Ninth Illinois. About 4:30 o'clock Generals Grant, Sherman and McClernand came up, with many of their staff, and inspected the position of the Forty-third. They soon sent up troops from the direction of the river, and formed them on the line held by the Forty-third; the Forty-sixth Illinois being formed on the right of the Forty-third, also facing to the west. A battery was placed on the left of the Forty-third, firing to the southwest. It was supported by the Thirteenth Missouri (subsequently called the Twenty-second Ohio), which faced to the south, being part of a compact line of infantry and artillery from there to the Tennessee, which the Union troops held during the night. In every position held by the Forty-third during the day it had left its dead and wounded, who, being carried off by the enemy, were the only men who had to be reported missing. The advance the next day was slow, and it was at about 4 o'clock p. m. when what was left of the Forty-third again stacked arms in front of its camp. Out of a total of 500 taken into action, it had lost 206, of whom 49 had been left dead on the field. The officers killed were Captains Louis Mauss, Franz Grimm, Chaplain J. L. Walther, Lieutenants John Oppendick, John Lindroth and Henry Sacker. Mortally wounded were Colonel Raith and Captain Olof. S. Edvall, and severely wounded Captain William Ehrhard, John Tobien and Charles Stephani and two Lieutenants.

The Regiment participated in the advance on Corinth; arrived at Bethel on June 6th; on 15th and 16th marched to Jackson, Tenn. July 17-19, marched to Bolivar, and built an extensive system of fortifications at that place.

Left Bolivar for Corinth by railroad on September 15th, going from there to Burnsville by rail during the night of 18th to 19th. Held with Grant's army near Burnsville all day of the 19th. At night had to dig rifle pits. On 20th marched to Iuka, but on the same day started back to Corinth, arriving there on the 21st. On 23d returned by rail to Bolivar. On October 9th marched to La Grange, Miss. Next day marched back to Bolivar, in a pouring rain.

On December 18th, 225 men of the Regiment moved by rail to Jackson, about 100 men being left in Bolivar, under Captain S. Schimminger.

The same evening the Forty-third and the Sixty-first Illinois, also 225 men, all under command of Colonel Engelmann, marched from Jackson, on the Lexington road, to the Brooks farm. Here, at 11 p. m., detachments of cavalry of the Eleventh Illinois, Fifth Ohio and First West Tennessee, in all about 800 men, were met. They had been sent out to watch the confederate Forrest, who had crossed the Tennessee, near Lexington, with 1,800 men and some artillery. Our cavalry, in trying to obstruct the march of Forrest, lost its two pieces of artillery and many of its men. They now came under the command of Colonel Engelmann. The troops stayed under arms and without fire, whilst Forrest's camp fires could be seen burning cheerfully all night. At daybreak the infantry was drawn back to the woods, on the edge of which Salem cemetery is situated; the Forty-third to the right of the road, the Sixty-first to the left and in rear of the cemetery. The cavalry was posted on the flanks, and some on the high ground forward, to draw the enemy into the ambush. The enemy first advanced very leisurely, putting his own and the captured artillery into position, in all six pieces, with which they kept up a cross-fire on the Union line for about an hour, from which the Union cavalry, worn out by the exertions of the preceding days, retired to the rear. The enemy now organized a charge on our center by 500 of its cavalry. They came first at a walk, then at a trot, then with a deafening yell charged at full speed. The infantry reserved its fire well, till it could be given with deadly effect, driving the enemy back in headlong flight, losing many killed and wounded, and three prisoners, and a number of horses captured. The Forty-third had only two men wounded. In the afternoon reinforcements came up.

The next day General Sullivan marched the Forty-third, with the balance of his command, eastward on the Lexington Road, 28 miles, while Forrest's cannons could be heard booming to the north along the line of the railroad to Columbus, where he took several depots. No enemy being in this direction, General Sullivan's command, on the 21st, returned to Jackson, from where Colonel Englemann went to Bolivar, while the detachment of the Forty-thir , under Lieutenant Colonel Dengler, marched with a body of troops, all under Colonel Lawler, of the Eighteenth Illinois, to Medon, Denmark, Glover Creek and Toon's Station, returning to Bolivar on the 26th.

In early spring of 1863, Brigadier General Brayman commanding, ordered 200 of the men of the Forty-third to be mounted; expeditions to the distance of forty miles from Bolivar were made, many skirmishes had, and many prisoners and horses taken.

On May 31, moved by rail to Memphis, embarked on the steamer Tycoon, and moved to Yazoo River. Having partly got on shore, the troops were speedily re-embarked and steamed up the Yazoo to Satartia, near which Wirt Adams was with several thousand confederate soldiers. A landing was effected, and the Union troops, under Generals Kimbald and Mower, drove the confederates beyond Mechanicsville, more than four miles. Lieutenant Colonel Dengler, here and always afterward, commanded the Regiment. Colonel Englemann commanded either the Brigade or Division of which it formed a part. On June 8, moved to Haines' Bluff; July 12, to Big Black River; July 22, to Snyders' Bluff; 29th, embarked for Helena, Ark. August 6, was assigned to First Brigade, Second Division, Seventh Army Corps, Major General F. Steele commanding.

August 13, left Helena. 17th, arrived at Clarendon, on White River. 22d, crossed White River. 24th, arrived at Duvall's Bluff.

September 1, moved from Duvall's Bluff. Arrived at Brownsville on the 2d and moved on 6th, crossing Bayou Meton on the same day. Colonel A. Englemann was assigned to command of the Second Division. 7th, arrived at Ashley's Mill, and camped until the 10th, when moved forward to the Arkansas River and laid pontoon. Two regiments of infantry, several batteries of artillery and a division of cavalry, crossed the river. The infantry moved on the north side of the river to a point opposite Little Rock. The enemy evacuated the place, and the cavalry, Thirteenth Illinois Cavalry in the lead, occupied the place. 11th, the Forty-third was ordered into the city, being the first Infantry Regiment to enter the place.

March 13th, 1864, the Forty-third was assigned to Third Brigade, Colonel A. Englemann commanding, Third Division, Brigadier General F. Saloman commanding. Major General F. Steele, taking command of the Red River Expedition, moved from Little Rock, March 23, 1864. After bridging many small streams and laying pontoon over the Ouachita, arrived at Arkadelphia on the 29th.

April 1, moved to Spoonsville. 2d, at Okolona, had a slight skirmish with Shelby's Brigade.

On 3d, Colonel Englemann's Brigade was sent back to Spoonsville to gather information concerning General Thayer's Division, which was to have joined them there. 5th, rejoined the army. 6th, crossed the Little Missouri. 9th, General Thayer came up.

On the 10th, moved to Prairie D'Ahu. The Cavalry in advance had come to a halt, numbers of Confederates being concealed in the hazelbushes, while large numbers and a battery were in a ridge beyond. Lieutenant Colonel Dengler was ordered to drive the enemy from their hiding places, which he speedily did. He and Adjutant Wagenfucher, on horseback, gallantly leading the men. A general advance was now made by the Forty-third Illinois, and Fortieth Iowa in line, closely followed by Vaughn's Battery, which soon engaged the enemy with great effect, driving him from his position, when the Forty-third with its Brigade moved at sundown to the position just left by the enemy. Artillery firing and skirmishing was kept up till 10 o'clock P. M., when the enemy charged on our lines and were repulsed.

April 12 to 14, marched to Camden, having several skirmishes on the way. General Steele had started south to unite with General Banks, at Shreveport, but information was here received of the defeat of Banks and his retreat, and that the enemy was massing his forces against Steele; so he determined to return to Little Rock. At 1 A. M. on the 27th the Forty-third left Camden and crossed the Washita on a pontoon bridge.

David Wilver, who had been on picket, was relieved after midnight. The body of the picket guards, having knapsacks and blankets with them, marched to the pontoon bridge, and joined the Regiment, but Wilver, having left his knapsack in camp, returned there alone, lost his way, and was soon captured by the enemy. He was the only sound man of the Regiment who was ever taken prisoner by the Confederates.

On the 28th, reached Princeton. On April 29, the Brigade to which the Forty-third belonged having the rear of the army, line had to be formed on several occasions to check the advance of the enemy. These lines were formed of the Forty-third Illinois, Fortieth Iowa, and Vaughn's Battery, always punishing the enemy and sustaining no loss themselves. These Regiments doing picket duty were engaged with the enemy all night. The Confederates, having collected upwards of 20,000 men, the next morning, April 30, attacked the rear of General Steele's forces in the Saline River Bottom near Jenkin's Ferry. The Union forces engaged were General Salamon's Division, to which the Forty-third belonged, and the Second Kansas, colored, and First Arkansas, colored, regiments of General Thayer's Division, in all about 4,500 men. The battle was most desperate and bloody; at one time the enemy placed a battery of four guns in position, when some men of the Twenty-ninth Iowa, Forty-third Illinois, and Second Kansas (colored), rushed up and took the battery, dragging two of the guns within the Union line. By 12 o'clock, noon, the enemy having been driven out of the River bottom, the Union forces resumed their march. Union loss, 700. Confederate loss at least three times as heavy. The Army arrived at Little Rock May 3.

The Forty-third remained at Little Rock till the enlistment for three years expired. Not quite three-fourths of the old men having re-enlisted in the veteran service, Colonel Englemann was discharged December 16, 1864. He succeeded in prevailing on the State authorities to assign a sufficient number of drafted men to the Forty-third, so that Lieutenant Colonel Dengler could be commissioned Colonel, in which capacity he now commanded. The Regiment remained at Little Rock till its muster out, November 30, 1865, from where it returned to Camp Butler for final pay and discharge, December 14, 1865.

Colonel Adolph Dengler died December, 1884, at New York.

HISTORY OF FORTY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

This Regiment was organized in August, 1861, at Camp Ellsworth, Chicago, under the supervision of Colonel Charles Knoblesdorff, and mustered into the service of the United States on the 13th day of September, 1861, and, on the 14th of the same month, embarked on board the cars for St. Louis, Missouri, where it arrived on the 15th.

On the 16th, ordered to Washington, D. C.; but this order was countermanded the next day, and the Regiment took up its quarters at Benton Barracks, where it remained till the 22d, when it received arms from the St. Louis Arsenal and embarked on steamer for Jefferson City, which was then threatened by the victorious army of General Price, jubilant over their dearly bought victory at Lexington. Arrived at Jefferson City on the 25th, and the next day disembarked and took quarters in the State House. Remained there till the 29th, when it marched to Sedalia, Missouri, where the Regiment was assigned to General Sigel's famous Division. Remained in camp, drilling, scouting, foraging, etc., till the 13th of October, when the army took up its line of march toward Springfield, Missouri.

Arrived at Springfield on the 27th, only a few hours too late to take part in the bloody charge, led by Major Zagonia (of General Fremont's Body Guard), on the rebel cavalry which was stationed there, by which they were driven from the town. Here remained till the 8th of November, when General Fremont, having been relieved from command on the 4th, and General Hunter placed in command of the army, it moved toward Wilson's Creek, the scene of the late bloody battle between General Lyon's and Colonel Sigel's forces, and the rebel army under Price and McCullough. The men were in the best of spirits, and, although they were now to meet that enemy whom they had been seeking for two months, none appeared o doubt their ability to whip any force which might be brought against them; but all were doomed to disappointment, for the next day's order was to turn back towards Springfield, where, arriving same evening, it was found that the army had broken up camp and was marching toward Rolla, Missouri. At the same time, the Division (Sigel's) had moved in the opposite direction only for the purpose of deceiving the enemy in regard to real movements; and, on the 13th, the Division followed on, in the rear of the main army, toward Rolla, the terminus of the G. W. Branch of the Pacific R. R., where it arrived on the 19th, without being materially molested by the enemy. Here it remained during the winter, the Regiment suffering severely from sickness, many of the men being called to "that house not made with hands," and many others being discharged for disability.

On the 2d of February, 1862, General Curtis having assumed command of the army, it again took up the line of march toward Springfield, where the rebel General Price had concentrated his forces, with the avowed determination of giving battle should he be attacked. But he failed to come to time, and the Union forces again took possession of the city on the 13th day of February, without serious opposition. Then began an exciting chase—this Regiment being continually in advance, till it reached Camp Halleck, Benton county, Arkansas. On the 20th, when the pursuit was abandoned, the troops were allowed a few days' rest, having marched four consecutive days during the most inclement weather, there being six inches of snow on the ground a portion of the time, and skirmishing with the enemy every day during the last week's march. Here they remained till the 5th of March, when it became evident that the combined forces of Van Dorn, Price and McCullough were marching to give battle, and accordingly on the 6th, moved toward Sugar Creek Valley, under the command of Curtis, Sigel, Davis and Asboth, and in the afternoon of the same day the rear guard was attacked and repulsed by the enemy. Thus began the terrible battle of Pea Ridge, which resulted so disastrously to the rebels, in which this Regiment took a prominent part. After the enemy had been routed this was one of the regiments selected to follow up his retreat, which was done for three days, capturing one stand of colors, taking many hundred prisoners and several pieces of artillery. Remained in this vicinity till the 5th day of April, when the march was resumed for Forsythe, Missouri, and thence to Batesville, Arkansas, on the White River. when the army was reorganized, it being now in the Brigade commanded by Colonel Osterhaus, and on the 8th of May crossed the river, and, as was supposed, took up the line of march toward Little Rock. Had not gone far when orders were received to return to Batesville and march to Cape Girardeau, on the Mississippi River, two hundred miles distant, and from thence to Pittsburg Landing, Tennessee, by water, to reinforce the troops then besieging Corinth, Mississippi. Arrived at Pittsburg Landing on the 26th of May, and the next day marched up within supporting distance of the main army, arriving two days previous to the evacuation. After the evacuation, was attached to Major General Pope's Army, and sent in pursuit of the retreating foe; but the roads were so bad that the pursuit was abandoned after a few days, and on the 12th of June, returned to Rienzi, Mississippi, and went into camp, and remained there until August 26, Cincinnati and Covington being threatened by the enemy, the Brigade, consisting of the Second and Fifteenth Missouri, Thirty-sixth and Forty-fourth Illinois, under command of Colonel Greusel, of the Thirty-sixth Illinois, was ordered to those places, to protect them from the assaults of the enemy.

It arrived at Cincinnati about the 1st of September, and immediately crossed the river to Covington, Kentucky, where it remained until the 17th, when it became known that the enemy had withdrawn from the front and were then moving upon Louisville. The Brigade recrossed the river to Cincinnati, and embarked on board the cars for Louisville, where it arrived on the 19th, and remained till the 1st of October. Here the command was again reorganized, under the command of Major General Buell—this Regiment being assigned to the Thirty-fifth Brigade, Eleventh Division, Army of the Ohio, and started on the memorable campaign after Bragg, through Kentucky. The Regiment was engaged in the battle of Perryville on the 8th of October, being in the Division commanded by General P. H. Sheridan. After the battle, followed the retreating foe to Crab Orchard. On the 20th of October marched toward Bowling Green, where it arrived on the 1st of November. Here General Rosecrans assumed command of the army. On the 4th of November took up the line of march toward Nashville, where it arrived on the 7th, thus relieving the garrison at that place and reopening communication with Louisville. Remained here till the 26th day of December, when the army moved against the rebel forces at Murfreesboro, Tennessee. Was now attached to the Second Brigade, Third Division, Twentieth Army Corps, Colonel Schaffer commanding the Brigade, General Sheridan the Division, and General McCook the Corps. In the bloody battle of Stone River the Regiment took a prominent part, losing more than half its number in killed and wounded. Remained with the army at Murfreesboro till the 26th of June, 1863, when it again marched to meet the enemy, and was engaged at Hoover's Gap, Shelbyville, and Tullahoma, Tennessee. Arrived at Cowan Station on the 2d of July, and remained there for a few days, when it marched to Stevenson, Alabama, driving the rear of the rebel army across the Tennessee River at Bridgeport, Alabama. Then returned to Stevenson, Alabama, and remained till the 21st of August, when the movement against Chattanooga, Tennessee, began. This Corps (the Twentieth) crossed Sand Mountain, and moved down the valley towards Rome, Georgia, and had reached a point within 27 miles of the latter place, when the balance of the army was attacked, near Chickamauga, by the rebel forces under Bragg and Longstreet. The Forty-fourth was ordered to return immediately, and rejoin the main army. After three days and nights forced marches, it arrived on the field in time to take part in the bloody conflict of September 19 and 20, 1863. Falling back to Chattanooga, Tenn., it remained there on quarter rations till the latter part of November. On the 25th of November this Regiment was foremost in the desperate charge upon Mission Ridge, Gen. Sheridan giving it praise for having placed one of the first flags on the rebel works. Following the enemy next day it captured many prisoners and several pieces of artillery, and on the 27th was ordered back to Chattanooga to prepare for a forced march to Knoxville, 150 miles distant, to relieve the forces there then being besieged by the rebel forces under the command of General Longstreet. It arrived at Knoxville three days after the siege had been raised by General Burnside. The Twentieth and Twenty-first Corps having been consolidated at Chattanooga, the Forty-fourth was assigned to the First Brigade, Second Division, Fourth Army Corps—Colonel F. T. Sherman commanding the Brigade, General Sheridan the Division, and General Granger the Corps. From Knoxville marched to Severville, and after staying there a few days, were ordered back to Knoxville, and from there out on the E. T. and V. railroad, to Strawberry Plains, where it was reported the enemy had made a stand and offered battle; but this proved a mistake, and the Regiment went into camp at Blain's Cross Roads. Here the troops were on the point of starvation several times, having, for days at a time, nothing but corn in the ear, and but a limited supply of that. Nothing could more fully prove the patriotism of the men, than the fact that here, on the point of starvation, exposed to the most inclement weather, (it being so cold that the ink would freeze to the pen as the men signed their names,) over three-fourths of the men voluntarily consented to serve three years more for that government for which they had suffered so much during the past two years and a half. Remained here until about the 12th of January, 1864, when it marched to Dandridge, Tennessee, where on the 16th and 17th, an attack was made by the enemy; and, after considerable hard fighting, it becoming evident that the whole rebel army was advancing, the Union forces fell back to Knoxville, and from there marched to Kingston, Tennessee, when a stand was made till the 30th of January, when they were ordered to Chattanooga, to receive veteran furloughs. Arrived at that place on the 3rd of Febrnary, and drew full rations from the Government for the first time in four months. Started for home on the 18th, and reached Chicago on the 1st of March. On the fourth the men were furloughed, and started for home. From the time the Regiment left its rendezvous, in September, 1861, up to the time of re-enlistment, it had marched over 5,000 miles.

On the 14th day of April, the Regiment reached Nashville, Tennessee, on its way back to the field, On the 16th, marched toward Chattanoogo, arriving there on the 30th. The next day started for Cleveland, Tennessee, where it arrived on the 3d of May, and was immediately ordered to the front with the main army, which had just began its movements toward Atlanta. The Regiment passed through nearly all the battles and skirmishes of this ever memorable campaign, and entered Atlanta on the 8th day of September, with the main army. Among the many battles and skirmishes in which this Regiment was engaged during the campaign, might be mentioned Buzzard Roost, Rocky Faced Mountain, Resaca, Adairsville, Dallas, New Hope Church, Kenesaw Mountain, Gulp's Farm, Chattahoochie River, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta and Jonesboro, After staying at Atlanta, two weeks, it was on the 28th of September ordered to Chattanooga, where it remained till the 18th of October, when, in company with the rest of the Division (Second) it was sent on a reconnoitering expedition to Alpine Valley, about 40 miles distant. Returned on the 29th. On the 1st of November it was ordered to Athens, Alabama, for the purpose of intercepting the rebel army under General Hood, now marching toward Nashville, Tennessee. From Athens it marched to Pulaski, Tennessee, and made preparations to give battle should the enemy attack; but it soon became apparent that our numbers were far to small to cope successfully with the rebel hordes. On the 22nd, commenced falling back towards Nashville, closely followed by the enemy. There was more or less fighting every day until the 30th of November. Arriving at Franklin, Tennessee, General Schofield, then in command, determined to offer battle. The conflict was short, but one of the most desperate in which the Regiment was ever engaged. Our Brigade commander, Colonel Opdyke, afterward in a general order, by the authority of the general commanding, gave the honor of gaining the victory and saving the army to this Brigade. The next day reached Nashville, and the Regiment again took part in the battle of Nashville, December 15 and 16, and followed the broken and scattered columns of the rebel force to the Tennessee River. On the 5th of January, 1865, went into camp at Huntsville, Alabama

Thus ended the war in the Department of the Cumberland. On the 29th of March the Regiment was ordered to Knoxville, Tennessee, and then to Bull's Gap and Blue Springs, East Tennessee, where it remained till the 19th of April, when the rebel army of Virginia having surrendered to General Grant, the Corps (the Fourth) was ordered to Nashville, where it arrived on the 22d, and for a few weeks indulged the vain hope that it was now going to be mustered out of service, but this illusion was soon dispelled by receiving orders to go to New Orleans. On the 15th day of June, started for the Cresent City, arriving on the 22d. After lying there till the 16th of July, was ordered to Texas, and embarked on board steamer for Indianola. Landed at Port Lavaca on the 23d, and went into camp on the LaPlasido River, where it remained until the 25th day of September, 1865, when it was mustered out and placed en route for Springfield, Illinois.

Arrived at Springfield October 15, 1865, where it received final payment and discharge.

HISTORY OF FORTY-FIFTH REGIMENT.

The Washburne Leadmine Regiment, was organized by John E. Smith, of Galena, Illinois, who was commissioned Colonel of Volunteers, July 23, 1861. The Regiment, during its orpanization rendezvoused at the JoDaviess county fair grounds, near Galena, and the camp was named Camp Washburne, in honor of E. B. Washburne, member of Congress from the Galena district. Seven companies of the Regiment only, were in camp at Galena, but the regimental organization was fully completed and the Regiment armed with the short Enfield rifle.

November 22, 1861, Camp Washburne was broken up, and the Regiment ordered into camp, at Camp Douglas, Chicago. Here the full complement of ten companies was made up, and the Regiment, as a Regiment, mustered into the service of the United States, as the Forty-fifth Illinois Infantry, December 25, 1861.

January 12, 1862, the Regiment left Camp Douglas for Cairo, Illinois, where it went into camp on the 15th of January.

February 1, the Forty-fifth was assigned to the Second Brigade, commanded by Colonel W. H. L. Wallace, First Division, commanded by General John A. McClernand.

February 2, the Regiment left Cairo with General Grant's army for the Tennessee River, and on the 4th pitched its tents in the first camp in the field, at Camp Halleck, four miles below Fort Henry. On the evening of the 6th of February, the Regiment marched into Fort Henry, the enemy having moved out the same day.

February 11, the Forty-fifth, with the division, moved out of camp at Fort Henry at 4 o'clock P. M., and took the direct road for Fort Donelson.

February 13, during the forenoon, it took its position on the right of the line. The afternoon of the 13th, the Forty-fifth was sent to the relief of the Forty-ninth Illinois Infantry, which was engaged close up to the enemy's works, and received its "baptism of fire." It came hot, but brief, and the Regiment emerged benefitted by the encounter. The Forty-fifth bore its full share of the three days' fight at Donelson, though its loss was small, only 2 killed and 26 wounded.

The Regiment remained in camp at Fort Donelson until March 4, when it marched across the country to the mouth of the Big Sandy, and took boats up the Tennessee River to Savannah, arriving on the 11th.

Remained in camp at Savannah until March 25. While at Savannah the Forty-fifth formed part of what was called the "Pin Hook expedition," which was simply a two or three days' scout into the interior, towards Pin Hook.

March 25, moved to Pittsburg Landing and went into camp with McClernand's Division. The camp of the Forty-fifth was at the junction of the Purdy and Corinth roads, not far from Shiloh church.

April 6, the Regiment had its regular Sunday morning inspection, and left its arms stacked on the color line at the close, to take breakfast. The breakfast call had just sounded, when the "long roll" was beaten on the color line, and in three minutes, at most, the men had their arms in their hands, and the officers were in their places. The order was to move to the left and front, "double quick," to support Sherman. The Forty-fifth went into the fight at Shiloh with about 500 men. It was in the front line from first to last of the two days' fight. On Sunday it fought mainly on its "own hook" after the first engagement, under the command of Colonel Smith, and fought back and forth over the same ground a number of times. Late in the day it fell back, leisurely, and took its place with its Brigade and Division, on the right of the line, when the final stand was made. Here the Forty-fifth laid on its arms during the night in the rain, and moved forward on Monday morning at daylight. The second day it was a forward movement nearly all day, and after the final charge, Monday, the Regiment stopped almost in its old camp, from which it had so suddenly departed on Sunday morning.

The losses of the Forty-fifth at Shiloh were 26 killed, and 199 wounded and missing. The missing, not wounded, were but few, and they rejoined the Regiment when it went into its old camp, about dark on Monday.

April 24, the Forty-fifth broke camp at Shiloh, and moved forward with the army on its slow approach upon Corinth. During the siege, the Forty-fifth was attached to the First Brigade, Third Division of the Reserve. Its labors in the trenches were severe; its dangers were few.

June 4, 1862, the Forty-fifth was ordered from Corinth to Jackson, Tenn., where it arrived with the Third Brigade on the 8th of June, and went into camp in a beautiful grove just east of town. The summer of 1862 was spent in camp at Jackson, or on railroad guard duty at different points along the line.

August 11, the Regiment was assigned to guard duty south of Jackson, on the line of the Mississippi Central Railroad. Four companies were stationed at Medon, one company at Treager's, and five companies at Toon's.

On the 31st of August Armstrong's rebel cavalry brigade raided within the Union lines, and struck the railroad just north of Toon's, at Treagers' and at Medon. Company C, was captured at Treagers'. At Medon a sharp fight occured but the rebels were repulsed. The loss in the Forty-fifth was three killed, 13 wounded and 43 taken prisoners.

September 17, the Regiment returned to camp at Jackson.

November 2, moved from Jackson to Lagrange, Tenn. The Regiment did provost guard duty in Lagrange until November 28, when it moved forward with the army on the Holly Springs campaign. The Forty-fifth marched south as far as Springdale, where it countermarched for the return trip.

At Springdale Colonel John E. Smith received his commission as Brigadier General and took formal leave of the Regiment, though he had been in command of a brigade for some months.

The Forty-fifth moved on the return march December 22, to north of the Tallahatchie River, where it remained until January 1, 1863, when it continued its northern march to Memphis.

In the month of February, the Forty-fifth moved with General Grant's Army on transports down the river from Memphis to take part in the Vicksburg campaign. Stops were made at Lake Providence, Vista Plantation and Milliken's Bend. At Milliken's Bend, volunteers were called for to run the batteries with transports at Vicksburg. The entire Regiment, officers and men, volunteered for this duty. The matter was decided by making a detail of the quota assigned to the Forty-fifth. The detail comprised the crew which manned the steamer Anglo Saxon, and took her safely through, loaded with a full cargo of commissary stores. The following composed the detail: Commander, Captain L. B. Fisk, Co. E; Pilots, Privates Charles Evans, Co. D, Joshua Kendall, Co. K; Engineers, Sergeant A. J. Esping, Co. B, Charles Flint, Co. G; Firemen, Privates J. M. Primmer, Co. F, Wm. Tripp, Co. G, Jonny Paul, Co. C.

May 1, 1863, found the Forty-fifth on the east bank of the Mississippi at Bruinsburg, below Vicksburg, and the same day started with General Grant's army on the famous campaign which ended in the capture of Vicksburg. The Regiment participated in all the battles of the campaign, forming part of Logan's Division.

The position of the Forty-fifth during the siege of Vicksburg, was immediately at the White House, on the Jackson road, in front of the rebel Fort Hill, regarded as the key to the fortress.

The Forty-fifth took part in three charges against the rebel works, on the 19th and 22d of May, and the 25th of June. On the 22d Major Luther H. Cowen was instantly killed. About a month was occupied in running a sap and digging a mine under Fort Hill. June 25, the mine having been charged, the match was applied. The Forty-fifth was selected as the storming party, when the breach should be made. Immediately after the explosion the Regiment rushed into the crater, but was met with a murderous fire by the enemy, who was still protected by an embankment of about three feet in width, which had been thrown up by the rebels as an inner line in case the outer works should be demolished. The loss to the Forty-fifth in this charge was 83 officers and men killed and wounded. Among the killed were Melancthon Smith, Lieutenant Colonel, Leander B. Fisk, Major, and a number of non-commissioned officers and men. Among the wounded was Jasper A. Maltby, Colonel of the Regiment. It was a bloody affair indeed. When the city surrendered, on account of its conspicuous service during the siege, by order of General Grant the Forty-fifth was given the advance of the Union army when it entered that stronghold, and its flag was raised upon the court house by Colonel Wm. E. Strong, of General McPherson's staff, to denote the possession of the city by the Federal army.

The Forty-fifth was detailed for provost guard duty in Vicksburg on the 4th of July, and continued to do duty until October 14, when it was relieved, to take part in the Canton raid during which a skirmish occurred with the rebels at Boguechitto, on the 17th.

From November 7, 1863, until February 3, 1864, the Forty-fifth was in camp at Black River, some ten miles east of Vicksburg.

In the months of December and January the Regiment, almost to a man, re-enlisted as Veterans.

From February 3 to March 4, the Forty-fifth took part in the "Meridian raid," and was engaged in the skirmish at Chunky Station, where three men of the Regiment were wounded.

March 17, the Forty-fifth left Vicksburg for Cairo, where it was given a thirty days' veteran furlough.

May 4, the Regiment again rendezvoused at Cairo, and rejoined the army, then on the Atlanta campaign, the 7th day of June, at Etowah Bridge, Ga., going by steamer from Cairo to Clifton, Tenn., and thence marching overland via Pulaski, Tenn., Huntsville and Decatur Ala., Rome and Kingston, Ga. From this date the Forty-fifth took its share in the Atlanta campaign, before and after the fall of Atlanta, until the beginning of the "march to the sea."

On the "march to the sea" the Forty-fifth was attached to the Seventeenth Army Corps, as it had been during the Vicksburg campaign, and from the first organization of that famous Corps. Left Atlanta November 12 and arrived in Savannah December 21, 1864.

January 4, 1865, the Forty-fifth left Savannah, Ga., by steamer and debarked at Beaufort, S. C., on the 13th.

January 14, the Forty-fifth was engaged in the attack on Pocotaligo, S. C., and suffered a loss of 8 men wounded, before the place was taken.

January 30, the Forty-fifth left Pocotaligo to continue the march through the Carolinas, via Orangeburg, Columbia, Ridgeway and Winsboro to Sugar Loaf Mountain, where, on the 28th of February, it went into camp, having marched over 300 miles in less than a month.

March 3, moved on by Cheraw, Fayetteville and Bentonville to Goldsboro, N. C., where it arrived March 24, having been in the wilderness over fifty days. At Fayetteville, March 11, the city surrendered to Sherman's "Bummers," and Wm. C. Taylor, then a private, but afterwards Quartermaster of the Forty-fifth, received the surrender at the hands of the Mayor.

April 10, the line of march from Goldsboro was continued. The Forty-fifth moved on to Raleigh and Greensboro, and then back again to Raleigh, where it received the news of the surrender of Lee's and Johnston's armies, and saw and heard that the rebellion was a failure, and that the war was over.

May 1, 1865, the Forty-fifth, with the rest of the Seventeenth Army Corps, took up its march for Washington, D. C., via Richmond. This was its hardest march of the war. The Fifteenth and Seventeenth Army Corps were engaged in a sort of foot race, to see which would reach Washington first. The Seventeenth Corps in one day made 39 miles; the Fifteenth Corps made in one day 35 miles. It was a hard tussle, but neither Corps won the race. They arrived at Alexandria and went into camp on the same day, May 19, 1865.

From May 14, 1864, to May 19, 1865, the Forty-fifth marched 1,750 miles.

The Forty-fifth participated in the Grand Review at Washington, May 23 and 24.

June 6, the Regiment left camp at Washington for Louisville, Ky., by rail, and arrived at the latter city on the 8th.

July 12, 1865, the Regiment was mustered out of service at Louisville, Ky., and arrived in Chicago July 15, 1865, for final pay and discharge.

HISTORY OF FORTY-SIXTH INFANTRY.

The Forty-sixth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, December 28, 1861, by Colonel John A. Davis.

Ordered to Cairo, Illinois, February 11, 1862. From thence proceeded, via the Cumberland River, to Fort Donelson, Tennessee, arriving 14th, and was assigned to the command of General Lew Wallace. On the 15th, lost one man killed and two wounded. 16th, moved through the works and to Dover. 19th, moved to Fort Henry.

March 6th, embarked for Pittsburg Landing, where it arrived on the 18th. The Regiment was now in Second Brigade, Fourth Division, with Fourteenth, Fifteenth and Forty-sixth Illinois, and Twenty-fifth Indiana, Colonel James C. Veatch, Twenty-fifth Indiana, commanding Brigade, and Brigadier General S. A. Hurlbut, of Illinois, commanding Division.

In the battle of Shiloh, the Forty-sixth took a conspicuous and honorable part, losing over half of its officers and men, in killed and wounded, and receiving the thanks of the commanding generals. Among the wounded were Colonel John A. Davis, Major Dornblaser, Captains Musser, Stephens, Marble and McCracken, Lieutenants Hood, Barr, Arnold, Ingraham and Howell. In this action, the "Fighting Fourth Division," of General Hurlbut, achieved a reputation for bravery, to which it added on every field in which it was engaged until the close of the war.

The conduct of the Regiment at Shiloh is fully set forth in the following extracts from the reports of the several commanders whose names are attached thereto:

HEADQUARTERS SECOND BRIGADE, FIRST DIVISION.

APRIL 9th, 1862.

DEAR SIR:—I beg to thank you and the officers and soldiers of the Forty-sixth Illinois Infantry for their noble conduct during the action of Monday morning last, when your lamented Colonel so promptly responded to my request to take a position in my command, and so gallantly led you in the face of the enemy with so fatal a result to himself. My heartfelt sympathies are with you in your severe loss, and your soldierly conduct shall receive a fitting notice in my official report.

I am, sir, truly yours,

[Signed] C. C. MARSH,

Colonel Twentieth Illinois Infantry, Commanding Brigade.

* * * * *

Colonel Davis, Lieutenant Colonel Jones and Major Dornblaser of the Forty-sixth Illinois Infantry, each displayed coolness and courage in resisting the heavy columns thrown against them. Major Dornblaser was wounded and compelled to leave the field early on the first day. Colonel Davis was severely wounded on the second day while gallantly fighting in Colonel Marsh's Brigade and was carried from the field. Lieutenant Colonel Jones took command and conducted his Regiment with skill and courage until the battle closed.

[Signed] JAMES C. VEATCH,

Colonel Commanding Brigade.

* * * * *

The General commanding tenders his heartfelt congratulations to the surviving officers and men of his Division for their magnificent services during the two days of struggle which, under the blessing of God, has resulted in victory. Let the Division remember that for five hours on Sunday they held, under the most terrific fire, the key point of the left of the army and only fell back when outflanked by overwhelming numbers, pressing through points abandoned by our supports. Let them remember that when they fell back it was in order, and that the last line of resistance in rear of the heavy guns was formed first by this Division. Let them remember that on the morning of Monday, without food and without sleep, they were ordered forward to reinforce the right, and that whenever either Brigade of this Division appeared in the field of action, they were in time to support the broken phalanx and to hold the line. Keep these facts in your memory, to hand down to your children when we conquer a peace, and let it be the chief pride of every man in the command—as it is of your General—that he was at Pittsburg with the FIGHTING FOURTH DIVISION.

By order of Brigadier General S. A. HURLBUT.

[Signed] SMITH D. ATKINS,

A. A. A. General Fourth Division.

Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, in the month of May.

June 2, camped six miles west of Corinth. On the 10th, marched to the Hatchie River. 15th, passed through Grand Junction, and camped three miles from town. 24th, moved to Collarbone Hill, near Lagrange. On the 30th, moved to Old Lamar Church.

July 1, marched to Cold Water, and returned on the 6th. On the 17th, moved toward Memphis, and marched via Moscow, Lafayette, Germantown and White's Station, camping two miles south of Memphis on the 21st July.

August 27, engaged in the scout to Pigeon Roost.

September 6th, moved from Memphis toward Brownsville. 7th, marched through Raleigh and Union Stations. 9th, marched to Big Muddy River. 11th, via Hampton Station, to Danville. 12th, via Whiteville, to Pleasant Creek. 14th, via Bolivar, to Hatchie River.

September 27th, all the troops on the river, at this place, were reviewed by General McPherson.

October 4th, moved toward Corinth. 5th, met the enemy at Metamora. The Forty-sixth was in position on the right of Second Brigade, supporting Bolton's Battery. After an hour of shelling, by the batteries, the infantry were ordered forward, and at a double quick advanced, driving the enemy across the river. The First Brigade coming up, "Hurlbut's Fighting Fourth Division" advanced and drove the enemy from the field, compelling their flight. Colonel John A. Davis, of the Forty-sixth, was mortally wounded in this action, and Lieutenant M. R. Thompson, also—both dying on the 10th. After the battle returned to Bolivar.

Brigadier General Veatch, in his report of the battle of the Hatchie, complimented his Brigade very highly, of which this is an extract: "The field and staff officers of every regiment appeared to do all that could be done to render victory complete. The line officers, so far as their conduct came within my notice, did their whole duty, and the men moved with steadiness and resolute courage not easily surpassed. The loss in killed and wounded embraces many valuable officers. Colonel John A. Davis, of the Forty-sixth Illinois Infantry, fell severely wounded early in the action while gallantly leading his Regiment in a charge. He has since died of his wounds. He was generous, noble and brave, and will be regretted by all who knew him."

November 3, marched to Lagrange. 28th, moved to Holly Springs. 30th, toward Tallahatchie River, and camped near Waterford, Mississippi, where splendid winter quarters, with mud chimneys, and bake ovens complete, were fitted up, in time to move away from them.

December 11, to Hurricane Creek, and 12th, to Yocona Station, where it remained until December 22, when it marched to Taylor's Station.

Van Dorn having captured Holly Springs, marched, on 23d, via Oxford, to Hurricane Creek. 24th, the Forty-sixth Illinois and Thirty-third Wisconsin moved, as train guard, to north side of Tallahatchie River. 26th, moved camp four miles nearer Holly Springs, between Waterford and Wyatt Station.

January 6, 1863, moved to Holly Springs. 10th, Fifteenth and Forty-sixth Illinois were escort to ammunition train to Lagrange. 13th, marched to Moscow, where it remained until February 5, when it moved to Lafayette. The garrison of Moscow was First Brigade, Fourth Division, the Forty-sixth and Seventy-sixth Illinois, of the Second Brigade, and two batteries; and the garrison of Lafayette, the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Illinois and one battery, Colonel Cyrus Hall commanding.

After rejoining Brigade at Lafayette, marched, 9th of March, via Collierville and Germantown, to Memphis.

April 21st, 1863, engaged in the expedition to Hernando, and returned 24th.

May 13, embarked for Vicksburg, and, on the 15th, landed at Young's Point. 18th, marched to Bowers' Landing. 19th, moved to Sherman's Landing. 20th, moved, by steamer, up Yazoo to Chickasaw Bayou. Disembarked, and moved across the swamp to the bluff.

May 21, proceeded to the right of General Grant's Army, and were then ordered to Snyder's Bluff. 24th, marched in the direction of Vicksburg 25th, marched to the extreme left of the line. The Regiment was detailed on picket duty, and, during the night, the outpost, consisting of five companies of the Regiment, were captured by the enemy. One hundred and four men and seven officers were captured, seventy escaping.

The remainder of the Regiment took an active part in the siege of Vicksburg. July 5, moved to Clear Creek. 6th, to Bolton Station. 8th, to Clinton. 9th, to Dickens' Plantation, where it remained guarding train. 12th, moved into position on the extreme right of the line near Pearl River. Engaged in the siege until the 16th, when the enemy evacuated Jackson: after which the Regiment returned to Vicksburg.

The Division was now transferred to the Seventeenth Corps, and Brigadier General M. M. Crocker assigned to command.

August 12, moved to Natchez.

September 1, went on an expedition into Louisiana, returning on the 8th. September 16th, moved to Vicksburg.

November 28, moved to Camp Cowan, on Clear Creek.

Janeury 4, 1864, the Forty-sixth was mustered as a Veteran Regiment. 12th, started North, for veteran furlough. 23d, arrived at Freeport, Illinois, and on the 27th, the Regiment was furloughed.

During the month of February, 1864, the officers of the Regiment were engaged in recruiting it, and one new company, raised at Freeport and commanded by Captain James W. Crane, was attached to the Regiment as Company D.

On March 2, 1864, the Regiment, numbering 987 officers and men, left Freeport, and proceeded to Cairo, Ill., by rail, thence to Vicksburg, Miss., by boat, thence to Camp Hebron, ten miles east from Vicksburg, where the Regiment rejoined the Second Brigade, Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps.

From March 10th to April 5th, the Regiment was in camp of instruction. Upon the latter date the Brigade to which it was attached marched to Big Black Bridge, twelve miles east of Vicksburg, and reported to Brigadier General E. S. Dennis, commanding.

On April 25th the Regiment moved to Vicksburg, by rail, and encamped near Battery Ransom, northeast of the city, doing garrison duty. On May 4th the Regiment started on an expedition to Benton and Yazoo City, Miss., with the command under Brigadier General John McArthur; the Regiment was commanded by Lieutenant Colonel John T. Jones, Colonel Dornblaser being in command of the Brigade. Benton was reached on the 9th. On the 13th the Regiment moved to Vaughn's Station; on the 15th to Yazoo City; on the 18th, via Liverpool, Sartaria and Haines' Bluffs, to camp at Vicksburg, having marched during the expedition over two hundred miles, and losing one killed. The Regiment remained in camp until July 1, upon which day it started on the expedition to Jackson, Miss. Reached Big Black Bridge on the 1st, and Clinton on the 4th. After a skirmish with the enemy the Regiment reached Jackson on the 5th. Returning on the 6th, a large force of the enemy was met and an engagement took place, which was continued on the 7th. The Regiment reached Vicksburg on the 9th, having sustained a loss of forty-three men in the expedition—three killed, thirty-six wounded, one captured and three missing. July 29th the Regiment embarked on board the steamer Adams, and dropping down the river disembarked at Morganzia Bend, La., where it did guard duty for some time. On August 13th the Regiment was assigned to the First Brigade, Second Division, Nineteenth Army Corps; Colonel Dornblaser commanding the Brigade, General Dennis the Division, and General Reynolds the Corps.

On August 23d the Regiment marched to Port Hudson, La., arriving there on the 24th. The Regiment then moved to Clinton, La., returning via Port Hudson to Morganzia, arriving there on the 29th.

On the 13th of September left Morganzia, and proceeding up the river arrived at the mouth of White River, in Arkansas, and went into camp there on the 8th. On the 13th the non-veterans of Companies A, B and C left for Springfield, Ill., to be mustered out of service.

On March 1st Colonel Dornblaser who had been home on a leave of absence, returned to the Regiment, bringing with him one hundred and sixty recruits for the Regiment. While in camp at Fort Gaines the Reserve Corps was reorganized and named the Thirteenth Army Corps, the Forty-sixth Infantry being assigned to the Second Brigade of the First Division of the Corps, Major General Gordon Granger commanding the Corps, and Brigadier General James C. Veatch the Division. On the 18th the Regiment commenced the march with the Corps to Mobile. Was at Spanish Fort and Fort Blakely, and arrived at Mobile on April 12th. HISTORY OF FORTY-SEVENTH INFANTRY.

The Forty-seventh Regiment, Illinois Infantry Volunteers, was first organized and mustered into the service of the United States, at Peoria, Illinois, on the 16th day of August, 1861.

On the 23d day of September, 1861, the Regiment moved, by rail, from Peoria to St. Louis, Missouri, going into quarters at Benton, Barracks, near the city, where it was clothed and armed complete. Remained in Benton Barracks, undergoing a thorough drilling, daily, until the 9th day of October, when it moved by rail, to Jefferson City, Missouri, where it remained doing garrison duty until the 22d day of December, when it moved, by rail, to Otterville, Missouri. Remained there drilling and doing garrison duty until the 2d day of February, 1862, when it marched north to the Missouri River; crossing at Booneville, marched down to the north side of the river St. Charles, where it arrived on the 18th day of February; crossed the river at St, Charles, and moved, by rail, to St. Louis, where it embarked on the steamer War Eagle, and moved down the river, arriving at Cairo on the 23d day of February,

On the 25th day of February, moved back up the river 30 miles to Commerce, Missouri, where the Regiment disembarked and joined Pope's command, then preparing for a campaign against Island No. 10 and New Madrid.

Marched from Benton, Missouri, March 2, arriving in front of the enemy's works at New Madrid, March 4.

On the night of March 10, the Regiment, with the Eleventh Missouri Infantry, marched 10 miles below New Madrid, taking with them a battery of Light Artillery, to Point Pleasant, blockading the river and cutting off the enemy's communication by river below New Madrid and Island No. 10. Here the Regiment was brigaded with the Eleventh Missouri Infantry Volunteers, Twenty-sixth Regiment Illinois Infantry Volunteers, and the Eighth Regiment Wisconsin Infantry, and placed under command of Brigadier General Joseph B. Plummer. Remained at Point Pleasant, encamped in a disagreeable swamp, with continual heavy rains, until the 7th day of April,

The enemy having evacuated New Madrid on the night of the 5th of April, the Regiment marched with the Brigade up to New Madrid on the 7th, and on the 9th were paid four months' pay by Major Witherell.

On the morning of April 10, the Regiment embarked on board of steamer Aleck Scott, and proceeding, with the army, down the river nearly to Fort Pillow, returned on the morning of the 11th, and disembarked at Tiptonville, Tennessee, 20 miles below New Madrid April 12, re-embarked and moved up the river to Cairo, drew clothing and took on coal, and, on the night of the 20th, moved up the Tennessee River, arriving at Hamburg Landing, Tennessee, on the morning of the 22d of April; disembarked and encamped near the river.

During the following 15 days the Regiment accompanied General Pope's Army in its advance in the direction of the enemy's position around Corinth. A portion of the way it had to construct corduroy roads through extensive swamps. On the 9th day of May, was engaged at Farmington, Mississippi, in which engagement Lieutenant Colonel Daniel L. Miles was killed. On the 28th day of May the Regiment participated in an engagement near Corinth. On the night of May 29, the enemy evacuated Corinth, and the Regiment accompanied General Pope's Army, in pursuit of their retreating forces, as far as Booneville, Mississippi, returning to Camp Clear Creek, six miles south of Corinth, June 11, 1862, where in a few days, the Regiment received two months' pay from Major Etting.

On the 3d of July, the Regiment marched to Rienzi, Mississippi, remaining there until the 18th day of August, on which day Colonel John Bryner took leave of the Regiment—his resignation having been accepted, on account of poor health.

August 18, broke camp at Rienzi and marched to Tuscumbia, Alabama, rejoining the Brigade on the road, arriving there August 22, and on the 24th received two months' pay from Major Hempstad.

Marched from Tuscumbia September 8, and arrived at Camp Clear Creek September 14. Left Clear Creek on the morning of the 18th, and marched towards Iuka, Mississippi; participated in the battle of Iuka, on the 19th, where the army under General Rosecrans, defeated the enemy's forces under General Sterling Price. In this engagement Major John N. Cromwell was taken prisoner. Followed the retreating army of the enemy one day and then returned to Corinth, arriving there on the 3d day of October, and took part in the battle of Corinth, October 3 and 4. In the engagement of the 3rd, the brave and honored Colonel, William A. Thrush, was killed while bravely leading his command in a charge. Captain David DeWolf, of Company K, was killed. Captain Harmon Andrews was severely wounded and taken prisoner. The Regiment lost in this engagement thirty (30) killed and over one hundred (100) wounded.

After this battle, the Regiment accompanied General Rosecrans' Army in pursuit of Price and Van Dorn's defeated army, following them to Ripley, Mississippi, so close as to cause them to abandon some of their artillery and nearly all their wagons and equipage.

On the 14th of October the Regiment returned with the army, and encamped near Corinth until November 2d, when it marched to Grand Junction, Tennessee, and joined General Grant's expedition into Central Mississippi. Marched to Oxford, Mississippi, with the army, and returned to Grand Junction, Tennessee, January 1, 1863.

January 8, marched from Grand Junction, by way of Bolivar, Tennessee, for Corinth, where it arrived January 14. Moved, by rail, from Corinth, January 26, to Ridgeway Station, Tennessee, where the Regiment remained, guarding the railroad until March 12, when it marched to Memphis, Tennessee, and embarked on board steamer Empress, for the vicinity of Vicksburg. Remained near Helena, Arkansas, ten days; and again moved down the river, disembarking, on the 1st day of April, at Duckport, twelve miles above Vicksburg. Here the duties of the men were of various kinds—guard duty, loading and unloading steamboats, digging on a canal, and contriving the best plans at their hands to keep from reposing in water at nights.

On the 2d of May, the Regiment marched with the army down the west side of the Mississippi River, crossing it at Grand Gulf, and, with the Fifteenth Army Corps, then commanded by General Sherman, marched to Jackson, Miss., where, on the 14th day of May, 1863, it participated in the engagement which resulted in the capture of that city. On the morning of the 16th, was rear guard. On leaving the city, Colonel Cromwell, then commanding the Regiment, rode back to see if a detachment of troops, left back to bring up stragglers, were doing their duty, when a body of rebel cavalrymen came up between him and his command, and called on him to surrender, which he refused to do, and tried to escape, but was killed in the attempt, several bullets passing through his body.

The Regiment participated in the charge on the enemy's works at Vicksburg, May 22, losing 12 men killed, and quite a number wounded. During the siege of Vicksburg, Major John D. McClure received a severe wound, and carries the bullet in his body to-day.

On the 4th of June, the Regiment participated with the Brigade, under command of General Joseph A. Mower, in the defeat of a force of the enemy at Mechanicsville, Miss., 30 miles from Vicksburg, near the Yazoo River.

After the fall of Vicksburg, during the months of August, September and October, the Regiment encamped at Bear Creek, 20 miles east of Vicksburg.

In the middle of November, 1863, the Regiment moved up the river to Memphis, Tenn., and from there to Lagrange, Tenn., guarding the Memphis and Charleston line of railroad. A portion of the time, however, was occupied scouting after the rebel General Forrest's command.

On the 26th of January, 1864, left Lagrange and arrived at Memphis, January 28.

February 1, embarked on board steamer for Vicksburg, where it arrived February 3, and went into camp at Black River Bridge, 12 miles from Vicksburg. February 23, marched to Canton, Miss. Returned to Black River March 3, and to Vicksburg, March 7, where it embarked March 10, on board steamer Mars, for the Red River expedition. Was present at the capture of Fort DeRussey, La., March 14.

Participated in the battle of Pleasant Hill, La., April 9, 1864. During this expedition the Regiment was under fire several times, and endured many very severe hardships.

On the 22d of May, the Regiment arrived, with General Smith's command, at Vicksburg, having been for nearly three months engaged in as tedious and fatiguing a campaign as has ever fallen to the lot of any army to undergo.

June 5, Regiment embarked for Memphis. Moved up the river to Lake Chicot, disembarked, moved inland, and came in contact with a force of the enemy under General Marmaduke, who was defeated and completely routed. Regiment lost in this engagement 11 men killed, and quite a number wounded. Major Miles received almost a fatal shot in the neck, and Captain Biser was killed.

Regiment then proceeded to Memphis, and accompanied General A. J. Smith to Tupelo, Miss., with the exception of the men who had re-enlisted, numbering about one hundred, who left the Regiment at Moscow, Tenn., and went to Illinois on veteran furlough.

The veterans returned to the Regiment on the 8th day of August, and, with the Regiment, accompanied General A. J. Smith's expedition to Oxford, Miss. Returned to Memphis, August 27, 1864. The original term of service of the Regiment having expired, it was ordered to Springfield, Ill., where it was finally discharged on the 11th of October, 1864.

The veterans and recruits of the Regiment, numbering 196 men, left Memphis, September 2, 1864, under command of Lieutenants Edward Bonham and Royal Olmstead, acccompanying General Mower's expedition up White River, to Brownsville, Ark., and from there marched north into Missouri, after the rebel General Price's army, which was raiding in that State.

Arrived at Cape Girardeau, Mo., October 4, and took steamer for Jefferson City, October 6, arriving at Jefferson City on the 15th; thence moved by rail, to Otterville; thence marched to Warrensburg, where it arrived October 26. Left Warrensburg, by rail, for St. Louis, November 2d; arrived at St. Louis on the 4th. From St. Louis, the veteran detachment was ordered to Chicago, Ill., on 9th November, 1864, to assist in quelling any riot, should there by any, on the day of election. Their services not being required, they were ordered to report to the Superintendent of Recruiting Service, at Springfield, Ill., and were stationed at Camp Butler, where, on the 28th of November, it received 200 drafted men, and a Battalion of four full companies was organized, and Lieutenant Bonham commissioned as Major, and Lieutenant Olmstead commissioned Captain of Co. A. On the 3d day of December, the command was ordered to the field, reporting by way of St. Louis, to General Rosecrans. At St. Louis the order was modified, and its destination changed to Louisville, Ky. From here it was orded to Bowling Green, Ky., where it remained until January 27, 1865, when it moved, by rail, to Nashville. From Nashville, down the Cumberland and up the Tennessee River, to Eastport, Miss., where it joined its old Brigade—Second Brigade, First Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, accompanying it to New Orleans; thence to Mobile Bay, taking part in the reduction of Spanish Fort.

While laying in front of Spanish Fort, six additional companies arrived from Springfield, Ill., making the organization once more complete.

After the fall of Mobile, the Regiment marched with the Sixteenth Corps to Montgomery, Ala., where it arrived April 25, 1865. December 31, 1865, the Regiment was stationed at Selma, Ala.

Mustered out January 21, 1866, at Selma, Ala., and ordered to Springfield, Ill., where it received final pay and discharge.

HISTORY OF FORTY-EIGHTH REGIMENT.

The Forty-eighth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Butler, Illinois, in the month of September, 1861, by Colonel Isham N. Haynie. The Regiment left Camp Butler, for Cairo, November 11, 1861, nine hundred strong, and, after its arrival, constructed barracks for winter quarters. In January, 1862, was engaged in the reconnoissance in the rear of Columbus, under General Grant. February 2, embarked for Fort Henry, in W. H. L. Wallace's Brigade, General McClernand's Division. Landed a few miles below the fort, and was the first Federal regiment that formed a line of battle in Tennessee. February 6th, entered Fort Henry, which had surrendered to the gun-boats. February 11, moved toward Fort Donelson. 13th, in connection with the Seventeenth and Forty-ninth Illinois, Colonel Haynie commanding Brigade, charged the enemy's works, but was repulsed with a severe loss. 14th, was under fire during the day, losing a few men wounded.

February 15, was in position by the side of the Eleventh and Twentieth. The rattle of musketry, on the right, was incessant, and gradually approached the left, where the Forty-eighth was stationed, on the brow of the hill, and it was soon fiercely engaged. The enemy were twice repulsed from the front of the Forty-eighth, but they finally succeeded in turning the right of our line, and the Regiment was compelled to retire and form a new line, where the enemy was again repulsed, and he retired within the works. The Regiment lost, this day, forty killed and wounded. Among the killed was the gallant, daring and courteous Lieutenant Colonel Thomas H. Smith. The Regiment moved, with General McClernand's Division, to Savannah and to Pittsburg Landing. April 6 and 7, was engaged in the battle of Shiloh, the Regiment bearing its full part, and losing over half of its men, killed and wounded. Colonel Haynie and Lieutenant Colonel Sanford were both wounded on the 6th.

Was engaged in the siege of Corinth, May, 1862, and in June, ordered to Bethel, as garrison of that post. Remained there until 1863.

Colonel Haynie was promoted to Brigadier General November 29, 1862.

March 9, 1863, the Forty-eighth was assigned to William S. Smith's Division, of the Sixteenth Army Corps. Colonel Sanford taking command of the Brigade, Lieutenant Colonel Greathouse assumed command of the Regiment. It moved from Germantown to Memphis, June 9, and from thence to Vicksburg, where it participated in the operations in the rear of that place, and at Snyder's Bluff. Advanced with General Sherman's force, against Jackson, arriving at that place, July 11, 1863. It participated in the siege and in the charge of the 16th inst., losing 45 men killed and wounded. Among the killed was Major William J. Stephenson.

The Regiment left Black River, on its return north, September 30, arriving at Memphis, October 10, and leaving for Chattanooga, 11th, a march of over 400 miles.

After arriving at Chattanooga, was engaged in the operations in Lookout Valley. Took part in the battle of Mission Ridge, following the retreating enemy to Ringgold. From here it was ordered to Knoxville, Tennessee, to the relief of General Burnside. Without rations, blankets or overcoats, and but half shod, they made a march of two hundred and seventy miles. The men used their blankets, jackets and trousers to protect their feet from the sharp rocks, the ice and the snow. Returned to Bridgeport, Alabama, December 17. Arrived at Scottsboro, Alabama, January 1, 1864, and although not yet recovered from their severe campaign, over nine-tenths of the men present re-enlisted as veteran volunteers.

Arrived at Springfield, Illinois, on veteran furlough, January 27, 1864, where the Regiment was furloughed; rendezvoused at Centralia.

Moved from Centralia, Illinois, March 10, 1864, via Louisville, Kentucky, Nashville, Tennessee, and Scottsboro, Alabama, to Chattanooga. May 3, 1864, from thence, via Resaca, Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain, to Atlanta. In the Hood campaign, moved to Marietta, Resaca and to Jacksonville, Alabama, and returned to Atlanta.

November 15, 1864, moved with General Sherman's Army, arriving at the fortifications of Savannah, December 11, and at Fort McAllister, 13th. Thence to Savannah, January 1, 1865. From thence, by water, to Beaufort. Thence moved, January 21, via Pocotaligo, Branchville, Orangeburg to Columbia. Thence via Camden, Fayetteville and Bentonville, to Goldsboro, N. C. From thence April 10, to Raleigh. Thence via Lewisburg, Warrenton, Lawrenceville, Petersburg and Richmond to Washington, D. C. From thence, June 2, 1865, via Parkersburg, Virginia, to Louisville, Kentucky.

June 25, moved to Little Rock, Arkansas. Mustered out August 15, 1865, and moved to Camp Butler, Illinois, arriving August 21, 1865.

Distance marched, 3,000 miles. Moved by water, 5,000 miles; by railroad, 3,450. Total, 11,450.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-SECOND INFANTRY.

The Fifty-second Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Geneva, Kane county, Illinois, in November, 1861, by Colonel J. G. Wilson, and mustered into United States' service November 19 by Lieutenant J. Christopher.

November 28, moved with 945 men to St. Louis, Missouri, and went into quarters at Benton Barracks. Here Colonel Wilson resigned.

December 8 the Regiment, Lieutenant Colonel J. S. Wilcox commanding, moved to St. Joseph, Missouri. January 16, 1862, moved to Cairo via Palmyra, Quincy and Mississippi River. January 24, moved to Smithland. February 7 T. W. Sweeny was commissioned Colonel of the Fifty-second.

February 10, 1862, embarked for Fort Donelson and arrived 17th. 18th, was sent with prisoners to Chicago. March 7, arrived at St. Louis. March 13, left for Army of the Tennessee, and 20th, disembarked at Pittsburg Landing, and was assigned to Third Brigade, Second Division, Colonel Sweeney commanding Brigade and General Smith the Division.

The Regiment took a prominent part in the battle of Shiloh April 6 and 7, losing 170 killed, wounded and missing—Major Stark commanding first day and Captain Bowen on the second. The Regiment was engaged in the siege of Corinth May, 1862. Pursued the retreating enemy to Booneville, Mississippi, and returned to Corinth where the Regiment remained until the battle of Corinth, October 3 and 4. Was heavily engaged in this action, Colonel Sweeny commanding the Regiment—the loss being 70 killed and wounded. Pursued the retreating enemy as far as Ruckerville, and returned 12th.

October 3, moved to Hatchie River and returned.

December 9, 1862, moved with an expedition to Alabama. Met the enemy near Little Bear Creek, drove him 15 miles and returned to Corinth, arriving 14th. December 19, under command of Lieutenant Colonel Wilcox, left Corinth with the expedition of General G. M. Dodge to intercept Forrest. Marched 100 miles in four and one-half days, and returned weary and foot-sore.

January 2, 1863, moved to Tennessee River to intercept Forrest, as he had already crossed at Crump's Landing. Expedition returned.

January 26, moved to Hamburg, Tennessee; embarked on a little steamer, and on the next day disembarked and returned to Corinth.

February 25, 1863, moved, Major Brown commanding Regiment, Colonel Sweeny commanding expedition, to Jacinto, Mississippi. Arrived 27th. Remained until March 4, when it returned to Corinth.

On the 15th of April, Lieutenant Colonel Wilcox commanding Regiment, moved with an expedition of four brigades of infantry, one of cavalry, and fourteen pieces of artillery, Brigadier General G. M. Dodge commanding, to Northern Alabama. Marched to Burnsville on the 15th; through Iuka on the 16th; crossed Bear Creek on the 17th—Colonel Cornyn's cavalry skirmishing with the enemy, April 20 Colonel Sweeny was promoted to Brigadier General. 23d, the whole force advanced, driving the enemy. That night lay in line of battle. 24th, moved forward and entered Tuscumbia, Alabama.

April 27, moved toward Courtland. Met the enemy at Town Creek and skirmished till night. 28th, gained possession of the railrord bridge, effected a crossing and drove the enemy three miles. 29th, returned, arriving in Corinth May 2, 1863.

August 18, moved to Germantown, and Regiment assigned to guarding railroad.

October 29, moved to Iuka. 31st, bivouacked three and a half miles east of Iuka. November 6 the whole left wing of the Sixteenth Corps moved eastward. Arrived at Eastport and crossed the Tennessee. November 11, arrived at Pulaski, Tennessee. Remained, doing provost duty.

January 9, three-fourths of the Regiment having re-enlisted, it was mustered as a veteran organization. Started for Illinois, and arrived at Chicago January 17. Proceeded to Geneva, Kane county, and was furloughed 20th.

February 24, moved for Pulaski, Tennessee, under command of Lieutenant Colonel E. A. Brown, Colonel Wilcox having resigned. Arrived at Pulaski 29th. April 29, in Colonel E. W. Rice's Brigade (First Brigade), General Sweeny's Division (Second), Left Wing, Major General G. M. Dodge, Sixteenth Army Corps, moved southward, arriving at Chattanooga May 2.

May 3, 1864, commenced the Atlanta campaign. The Regiment participated in the battle of Snake Creek Gap, Resaca, Lay's Ferry, Rome Cross Roads, Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain, Nickajack Creek, Decatur, July 22 and 28, before Atlanta and Jonesboro, and went into camp at East Point.

September 26, 1864, the Second Division, Left Wing, Sixteenth Army Corps, was transferred to Fourth Division, Fifteenth Army Corps, moved to Rome, and by rail to Cartersville, and from thence marched to Allatoona. Arriving there too late for battle, it returned to Rome.

October 11, Lieutenant Colonel Bowen being mustered out, Major Boyd took command.

The Regiment marched with the Division, Brevet Major General J. M. Corse commanding, to Savannah, Georgia.

December 18 the non-veteran officers were mustered out, and J. D. Davis, having received a commission as Lieutenant Colonel, took command of the Regiment.

December 21, marched into Savannah.

January 29, 1865, started on the Carolinas campaign. Was present at the battle of Bentonville and arrived at Goldsboro March 24.

April 10, marched to Raleigh. Lay at Morrisville during Johnson's surrender.

Marched via Richmond and Alexandria and was in the grand review at Washington May 24, 1865. June 2, moved to Louisville, Kentucky.

July 5, mustered out of United States' service. Moved to Camp Douglas, Chicago, Illinois, and received final payment and discharge July 12, 1865.

HISTORY OF FIFTY THIRD INFANTRY.

The Fifty-third Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Ottawa, Illinois, in the winter of 1861-'62, by Colonel W. H. W. Cushman. On the 27th of February, 1862, was ordered to Chicago to complete its organization, and to assist in guarding the Confederate prisoners captured at Donelson and confined there.

Ordered to St. Louis March 23d, and from St. Louis to Savannah, Tenn. April 6th, was ordered to Shiloh, but for want of transportation did not move until afternoon of the 7th. Were assigned to First Brigade, Fourth Division, Brigadier General J. G. Lauman commanding Brigade, Brigadier General S. A. Hurlbut commanding Division, in which Brigade and Division the Regiment served until the close of the war.

The Regiment was engaged in the siege of Corinth, and for meritorious conduct on the skirmish line were furnished with new Springfield rifles. Marched to Grand Junction, LaGrange, Holly Springs, Miss., and Memphis. Tenn., arriving there July 21, 1862. The weather having been very hot, the troops had suffered very much from heat and scarcity of water on the march.

September 3, Colonel Cushman took leave of the Regiment, having resigned, leaving the regiment in command of Captain McClanahan, who had been acting as a field officer since the evacuation of Corinth.

September 6, moved toward Bolivar, Tenn., arriving there on the 13th. October 1, moved toward LaGrange, but meeting a large rebel force, moved back to Bolivar. Acting Adjutant C. R. May was taken prisoner by the rebel cavalry.

October 4, moved toward Hatchie River, and on the 5th engaged four times their number of the enemy, who were retreating from Corinth,

While crossing Davis' Bridge, on the Hatchie, a regiment from another State was forced back through our lines, but the Fifty-third moved steadily forward, holding the bridge and road for over two hours, until other troops could be crossed and placed in position. Loss in this battle, sixteen killed and forty-nine wounded. The Regiment here assisted in running a section of artillery, a Missouri Battery, up the bluff by hand, placing it within fifty yards of the enemy's line, and supported it while it did splendid work. The Regiment was complimented by General Hurlbut for its work here.

Returned to Bolivar October 8th. October 15th, Lieutenant Colonel Earl took command of the Regiment.

Moved to La Grange November 4, 1862. On the 28th of November, moved south with General Grant's army to Cold Water, Holly Springs, Waterford, Abbeyville and Oxford, Mississippi; arrived at Yocona Creek December 13th, and on the 22d commenced the northward march toward Tallahatchie River.

January 1, 1863, the Division was made a part of the Seventeenth Army Corps, General J. B. McPherson commanding Corps; J. G. Lauman the Division, and Colonel I. C. Pugh, of the Forty-first Illinois, commanding Brigade, now First Brigade, Fourth Division, Seventeenth Army Corps.

January 11th, arrived at Moscow, Tenn. The Division was transferred to the Sixteenth Army Corps, General S. A. Hurlbut commanding Corps, and was placed on duty guarding the Memphis and Charleston Railroad.

March 11, moved to Memphis. May 17, embarked for Young's Point. On 20th, moved to Haines' Bluff, and on the 25th swung into line with the main army around Vicksburg, being on the left of the Thirteenth Army Corps, Major General E. O. C. Ord commanding, to which our division was temporarily assigned.

On July 5, moved with General Sherman's army against Jackson, Miss., and on the 12th, while closing the lines around that place, the Brigade was ordered to charge the rebel works. The Fifty-third participated in this gallant but disastrous charge, going into the fight with 250 men and officers, and coming out with but 66. Colonel Earl fell near the rebel breast-works, pierced with four canister shot. Lieutenant Colonel McClanahan was severely wounded. Captain Michael Leahey and Lieutenant George W. Hemstreet were killed. Captain J. E. Hudson, mortally wounded. Captains Potter and King were wounded. Lieutenant J. B. Smith lost an arm and was taken prisoner. Captain George R. Lodge, Lieutenants Mark M. Bassett and John D. Hatfield, and a number of the enlisted men, were taken prisoners. The color guard and bearers were all either killed or wounded. The colors were captured, saturated with the life-blood of Sergeant George Poundstone, the color bearer.

A few days after this fight the Regiment returned to Vicksburg. The Division was assigned to the Seventeenth Army Corps, Brigadier General M. M. Crocker commanding Division. Moved to Natchez August 18th. Returned to Vicksburg November 30th, and camped at Milldale.

On the 1st of February, 1864, the Regiment, having re-enlisted, was mustered as a veteran organization, and on the 3d started on the Meridian campaign. Returning, arrived at Hebron, Miss., February 29th.

Left Vicksburg March 13th; reached Ottawa, Illinois, 22d, where the men were furloughed for 30 days. Companies I and E having been consolidated, a new company was organized and assigned to the Regiment as Company I, Captain Samuel I. Haynie commanding.

The Regiment rejoined the Division at Cairo, Major General F. P. Blair having been assigned to the Corps. Moved up the Tennessee River to Clifton; marched via Huntsville and Decatur, joining General Sherman's army at Kingston, Ga.

June 8th, the Fifty-third was ordered to Allatoona Pass, and instructed to build earthworks on each side of the Pass. They worked hard at that until July 13th, when they rejoined the Division at Marietta, Colonel B. F. Potts commanding Brigade, General W. Q. Gresham commanding Division.

On the 17th, joined the main army at the front. Was engaged in the siege of Atlanta, and in the engagements of July 19th, 20th, 21st and 22d; lost 101 men killed and wounded, Captain Samuel I. Haynie and Sergeant Major Oran M. Bull being killed.

Was engaged as skirmishers at Jonesborough, and went with the army as far south as Lovejoy Station; returned to East Point. After a few days rest at East Point, the Seventeenth Army Corps, under Major General T. E. G. Ranson, moved, October 1st, on a reconnoissance toward Sandtown.

Returned to East Point; October 4th, moved north in pursuit of General Hood's army. Followed Hood's army to Gaylesville, Alabama, where the army halted and rested a week or so.

October 27th, the army received orders to move to the vicinity of Atlanta. Major General Ranson being very sick, and not able to ride in an ambulance, the Fifty-third was detailed, at his request, to carry him on a litter and escort him to Rome, Georgia; carried him to within six miles of Rome, where he became too weak to go farther. At the farm house of James Berryhill, near Rome, the brave and gallant General T. E. G. Ranson died at 2:30 o'clock p. m., October 29, 1864. The Regiment escorted the remains to Rome, and the next day acted as an escort for a large number of officers, who were returning to their commands in the main army.

Went into camp near Marietta, Georgia, November 6. November 13th, moved to West Point, and on the 15th commenced the March to the Sea, Brigadier General Giles A. Smith commanding Division. Arrived in front of the fortifications of Savannah December 10th; a very foggy morning. The first shell from the enemy exploded in the ranks of company I, killing five and wounding six men. On the 21st marched into the city, and went into camp near Bona Venture Cemetery.

January 4, 1865, the Forty-first Illinois, of 222 men and officers, Major Robert H. McFadden commanding, was consolidated with the Fifty-third Illinois.

On the 6th, embarked for Beaufort, South Carolina, and soon after for Pocotaligo.

On January 29th, commenced the Carolina campaign Moved by the way of Orangeburg, Columbia, Fayetteville and Cheraw, participating in the battle of Bentonville, March 20th and 21st, losing one man killed and three wounded, among whom was Lieutenant Palmer, who had his right leg amputated just below the knee.

Marched to Goldsborough, Raleigh and Jones Station; and after Johnson's surrender marched with the army to Washington. Was in the grand review of May 24, 1865.

June 6th, left Washington for Louisville, Kentucky, where, on the 22d of July, the Regiment was mustered out of service by Lieutenant Robert M. Wood, A. C. M., and moved to Chicago. July 28th, received final pay and discharge.

The Regiment was commanded from its organization until the latter part of August, 1862, by Colonel Cushman, when he tendered his resignation, and left for his home in Illinois.

By Captain McClanahan from September 1, 1862, to October 15, 1862.
By Colonel Earl from October 15, 1862, to July 12, 1863.
By Colonel McClanahan from July 12, 1863, to June 21, 1865,
By Colonel McFadden from June 21, 1865, to July 28, 1865.

Lieutenants Mark M. Bassett and John D. Hatfield made their escape from Libby Prison on the night of February 9, 1864, through the famous tunnel, Hatfield coming into the Union lines at or near Washington Bassett was recaptured the fourth night out, but subsequently effected his escape from Columbia, South Carolina.

The following officers from the Forty-first Illinois were assigned positions in the Fifty-third, upon the consolidation of the two Regiments:

Major Robert H. McFadden, promoted to Lieutenant Colonel.
Surgeon George M. Warmoth.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-FOURTH INFANTRY.

The Fifty-fourth Infantry Illinois Volunteers was organized at Camp Dubois, Anna, Illinois, by Colonel Thomas W. Harris, in November, 1861, as a part of the "Kentucky Brigade." It was mustered into United States' service, February 18, 1862.

February 24, 1862, ordered to Cairo, Illinois. March 14, moved to Columbus, Kentucky. Three companies were stationed at Humboldt, Tennessee, during the fall of 1862, and December 18, the Regiment was ordered to Jackson, Tennessee. December 20, marched to Lexington, Tennessee, and returned on the 22d; 24th, marched to Britton's Lane and Toon's Station, returning December 28. Meantime General Forrest captured detachments of the Regiment, stationed on the railroad, and destroyed nearly all the records. The balance of the records were lost by the Quartermaster's Department, in transit from Columbus to Jackson. Remained at Jackson, with two companies at Medon Station, and two at Toon's, during January, February and March, 1863. In April, went to Corinth, and returned.

Left Jackson for Vicksburg, as part of the Third Brigade, Second Division, Sixteenth Army Corps, Brigadier General Nathan Kimball commanding Division, May 30, 1863. June 2d, arrived at Haines' Bluff, on Yazoo River. Was on the extreme left of Sherman's army, on the Big Black, confronting Johnson's army, on the Canton road.

July 24th, 1863, ordered to Helena, as a part of General Steele's expedition against Little Rock, Arkansas. August 13th, marched, and, September 10th, arrived at Little Rock. October 15th, moved to Benton and Rockport, and returned.

January, 1864, three-fourths of the Regiment re-enlisted, as veteran volunteers, and were mustered February 9, 1864. Left for Mattoon, Illinois, for veteran furlough, March 28th. Veteran furlough having expired, the Regiment re-assembled at Mattoon. The same day an organized gang of Copperheads, led by Sheriff O'Hair, attacked some men of the Regiment at Charleston, killing Major Shubal York, Surgeon, and four privates, and wounding Colonel G. M. Mitchell. One hour later the Regiment arrived from Mattoon and occupied the town, capturing some of the most prominent traitors.

April 12th, moved to Cairo; 14th, to Columbus; 16th, to Paducah. Left Paducah 22d, and arrived at Little Rock 30th.

May 18th, left for Brownsville. Moved, 19th, in pursuit of General Shelby, and arrived at Little Rock 30th. June 25th, moved to Duvall's Bluff, and thence to Clarendon. Fought Shelby on the 26th. Returned on the 29th. August 5th, assigned to guard 16 miles of Memphis and Little Rock Railroad, having five stations, with two companies at each. August 24, was attacked by Shelby, with 4,000 men and 4 pieces of artillery, and one station captured. Six companies were concentrated at a station, by Colonel Mitchell, and fought five hours, when their hay breast-works being burned by the enemy's shell, they were driven out and captured by detail. Loss, Lieutenant Thomas P. James and 13 men killed, and 35 wounded. Companies F and H, at a distant station, were not attacked. Were paroled at Jacksonport, Arkansas, and arrived at Benton Barracks, Missouri, September 9, 1864.

The Regiment was exchanged December 5, 1864, and arrived at Hickory Station, on Memphis and Little Rock railroad, January 18, 1865, and remained as railroad guard until June 6, 1865. Arrived at Pine Bluff, June 9, 1865. Marched, August 18, and arrived at Fort Smith, Arkansas, August 30. October 4, marched, and arrived at Little Rock, October 6.

Mustered out October 15, 1865. Arrived at Camp Butler, Illinois, October 26 and was discharged.

Since the organization the Regiment has had 1,342 enlisted men and 71 commissioned officers.

HISTORY OF FIFTY-FIFTH INFANTRY.

The Fifty-fifth Illinois Infantry Volunteers was organized at Camp Douglas, Chicago, and mustered into service October 31, 1861.

It was one of the two Regiments raised by David Stuart, its subsequent Colonel, under Act of Congress, and called the "Douglas Brigade." The other Regiment was the one afterwards known as the famous "Forty-second Illinois." The two Regiments never served together. The Fifty-fifth Illinois was principally made up from bodies of recruits raised in Fulton, McDonough, LaSalle, Grundy, DeKalb, Kane and Winnebago counties, and its members were largely young men raised upon farms.

Left Camp Douglas November 9, 1861, over the Chicago & Alton Railroad for Alton, Illinois, thence by steamboat for St. Louis, and arrived at Benton Barracks, November 11. Remained at Benton Barracks under the immediate command of General W. T. Sherman, until January 12, 1862, when it departed for Paducah, Kentucky, by steamer, which place was reached on January 22. The voyage was a tedious and painful one owing to steamer being frozen into ice and aground for many days.

The Regiment participated in the expedition sent to Columbus, Kentucky, to test the question of its evacuation immediately after the capture of Fort Donelson.

The contest at the latter place was avoided by the Regiment in consequence of the utter worthlessness of its arms before that time issued to it.

On March 8, 1862, the Fifth-fifth embarked on steamer to participate in the movement up the Tennessee River which resulted in the battle of Shiloh, movement on Corinth and etc. On March 15, it landed with other troops at a point several miles above Pittsburg Landing and attempted to cut the railroad in the interior, but this object was defeated by high water.

From that point the expedition dropped down to Pittsburg Landing and went into camp on the front line. It was here brigaded with the Fifty-fourth and Seventy-first Ohio, and Colonel D. Stuart, of the Fifty-fifth, placed in command of the brigade then known as the Second Brigade, Fifth (Sherman's) Division. Although belonging to Sherman's Division it was located about two miles east of the other three Brigades of its Division, being in point of fact the extreme left of the army, which met the rebel attack so soon to go into history as the battle of Shiloh.

Prentiss' Division was next to its right and front, though about one mile away. The Fifty-fifth with its companion regiments, was encamped upon the road leading from Pittsburg Landing to Hamburgh Landing, and near a small branch of Lick Creek.

On the morning of the battle of Shiloh, like all other troops upon the field, it had no premonitions of the fearful conflict to follow, until the report of fire arms further to the right gave evidence of that fact. The Regiment, under the immediate command of Lieutenant Colonel O. Malmborg, formed the center of the brigade, the Seventy-first Ohio being on its right, and the Fifty-fourth Ohio (Zouaves) upon its left. After forming line in several localities contiguous to its camp, during which time it was not engaged except in skirmishing though under the fire of Gage's rebel battery, position was taken to the left of its camp and about sixty rods in its rear along the south edge of a precipitous ravine. During the evolutions resulting in this formation the Seventy-first Ohio (excepting 18 men and its Adjutant) retreated.

The position of the Regiment at this time was with its right resting at a point precisely 500 yards east of Colonel Stuart's headquarters, with the Fifty-fourth Ohio upon its left. A full half mile of space unoccupied by troops existed to its right. This dangerous interval had been in part caused by the retreat of the Seventy-first Ohio. No artillery was upon this portion of the field to assist the federal troops. The Fifty-fifth Illinois had exactly 512 men in line and the Fifty-fourth Ohio from 350 to 400.

In this position it was finally attacked by Chalmers and Jackson's Brigades of Bragg's Corps, who had been placed in position at this point under the personal supervision of General Albert Sidney Johnston, the rebel commander-in-chief.

The main attack commenced here about noon, and this position was held until between two and three o'clock p. m., by the two isolated regiments above named, and was of incalculable value to the ultimate success of the Union Army, inasmuch as it defended the extreme left during a vital period from a flank movement contemplated by the rebel order of battle and vigorously attempted at the period spoken of.

After being nearly surrounded and suffering terribly the Regiment retreated from point to point and took its position with its organization still complete in the last line formed in the evening near the Landing. It participated in the battle of Monday, acting on the right, and suffered some loss. During this terrific conflict, the first in its history, the Fifty-fifth lost the heaviest of any federal regiment in that engagement except the Ninth Illinois. The loss of the Fifty-fifth was 1 officer and 51 enlisted men killed and 9 officers and 190 men wounded, being a total of 250 men; 26 men were captured.

The Regiment was engaged in the advance on Corinth and lost 1 killed and 8 wounded on May 17.

Entered Corinth May 30, and moved thence westward with General Sherman, stopping for a greater or less period at Chewalla, LaGrange, Lafayette, Moscow and Holly Springs. On July 21, 1862, the Regiment reached Memphis with General Sherman's Division and remained until November 26, doing camp and picket duty, participating in several expeditions into the interior, having one man wounded. Took part in what was known as the "Tallahatchie" campaign, leaving Memphis November 26, 1862. Returned to Memphis and descended the Mississippi River to take part in the battle of Chickasaw Bayou, where it lost 2 killed and 4 wounded.

Was at battle of Arkansas Post January 10 and 11, losing 3 men wounded.

Its first Colonel, David Stuart, who had previously been appointed Brigadier General by the President failed of confirmation and thereupon quit the service in the spring of 1863. Colonel O. Malmborg commanded the Regiment during the balance of its three years term.

April 30, 1863, was with expedition making feint on Haines' Bluff. Thence it proceeded after the army, then making the movement in rear of Vicksburg, overtaking the same in time to be under fire at Champion's Hill, suffering no loss. Crossed the Big Black May 17, at Bridgeport, and arrived in front of the works at Vicksburg, May 18. Participated in the assaults of May 19 and 22, and bore its full share during the siege, losing 14 killed and 32 wounded.

It lost 1 man killed while scouting near the Big Black. After being present at the surrender of Vicksburg July 4, the Regiment proceeded with Sherman's expedition to Jackson, wherein it lost 1 killed and 2 wounded.

Encamped in the vicinity of the Big Black until September 27, 1863, when it embarked at Vicksburg for Memphis and moved thence through Corinth to Iuka. Moved finally across the Tennessee and upon the laborious march to Chattanooga, arriving at that point November 21, 1863. During night of November 23, with rest of brigade, manned fleet of pontoon boats in North Chickamauga Creek and during intense darkness descended and crossed the Tennessee and captured the enemy's pickets—one of the most daring operations of the war. At the battle of Mission Ridge, which followed, the Regiment lost 3 wounded.

Marched with Sherman the round trip to the relief of Knoxville. Encamped after return successively at Bridgeport, Bellefonte and Larkinsville, during the winter. While at the latter place after exacting the right to elect officers the Regiment veteranized, at which time the existing field officers all failed of election and at the end of their term quit the service. The veterans were granted 30 days furlough from this point. At the opening of the Atlanta campaign the Regiment took its place as usual in the Second Division of the Fifteenth Corps and shared in the manifold labors and dangers of that famous campaign including the movement on, and battle of Jonesboro, losing 36 killed and 86 wounded, being a total of 122, or about one-half of its number engaged.

The heaviest loss was at the assault upon Kenesaw Mountain on June 27, 1864, viz.: 14 killed, including its gallant Commander Captain Augustine, and 33 wounded.

Joined in the pursuit of Hood through Northern Alabama and returned to Atlanta, Georgia, where 162 non-veterans were discharged.

Marched the entire distance on the picnic excursion termed the "March to the Sea." Thence north, and lost near Bentonville, N. C., 1 man killed, 1 wounded, and 6 taken prisoners.

After surrender of Johnston, Regiment marched for Washington, via Richmond, and took part in the Grand Review.

The Regiment was then ordered to Louisville, Kentucky, where it remained in camp a few weeks. Thence moved by steamer to Little Rock, Arkansas, where it was mustered out August 14, 1865. Arrived at Chicago, August 22, where it received final payment and discharge.

During the entire period of its service it received less than 50 recruits, hence all its casualties were from its original members.

This Regiment was engaged in 31 battles and was 128 days under fire. It marched 3,240 miles, traveled by railroad 2,875 miles and by water a further distance of 5,850 miles, total 11,965 miles.

It lost actually killed in battle 108 men, and its total wounded were 339, making an aggregate of 417 struck with the missles of war. There are no data to state the exact number of mortally wounded though it is known that 35 died from such cause within one year after "Shiloh." Of the men who actually took the field in battle array more than two out of every three were hit by bullets. About one-third of such men lost their lives from the casualties of battle or disease. During the war this Regiment had only 49 men captured, which speaks volumes for its discipline and cohesion.

It was extremely fortunate in its medical department, Dr. E. O. F. Roler, of Chicago, being its surgeon in chief.

Its Chaplain, the Rev. M. L. Haney, was all that could be desired, noted as well for his great personal bravery, as for his zealous performance of professional duties.

It is not probable that any other Regiment so closely followed the destiny of General W. T. Sherman. It was first in his brigade at Benton Barracks, in December, 1861, and thereafter became a member of the Fifth Division commanded by that General. Subsequently it was always a member of the Second Division, of the Fifteenth Army Corps, and following all the footsteps of that General, except the Meridian raid. In its various marches it traversed every southern state except Delaware, Texas and Florida.

Owing to its extraordinary losses at Shiloh and receiving no recruits it was small in numbers at all subsequent periods and noted for its proficiency in drill.

After reorganization at the end of its three years term, it was commanded until nearly the close of its career by its senior captain, when Captain C. A. Andress became Lieutenant Colonel. Its dead now lie buried in nine different states.
